REPORT SANDINO KILLED

MARINES TRYING TO CONFIRM REPORT OF GENERAL'S DEMISE

Mouth-To-Mouth News

MANAGUA, Jan. 19.—United States marines today were making determined efforts to confirm reports that the rebel leader, General Augustino Sandino, had been killed or seriously wounded.

No definite news concerning Sandino's death or wounding has been received, the only word reaching marine headquarters coming from natives who reported that they had received the information via the vague mouth-to-mouth method of communication in the jungles.

The reports had it that Sandino was killed during the air attack by marines on El Chipote, Sandino's stronghold, last Saturday.

These reports, and also those from marine aviators indicating that El Chipote was deserted of rebel troops, have been deemed sufficient for a thorough investigation.

The attack against the El Chipote position of the Sandino rebels on Saturday was the most intensive yet made by United States marines. A squadron of fighting planes led by Major R. F. Rowell attacked with both bombs and machine guns. At least forty rebels were reported killed. Later Sandino was reported to have moved his headquarters and drawn in his outposts.

First report of Sandino's supposed death was received from natives reaching here from Jinotega, former headquarters of the rebels. Everything has been quiet at El Chipote since the raid on Saturday. Air scouts reported that native huts in which followers of Sandino had been living are evidently deserted.

ROBINSON ACCEPTS HEFLIN CHALLENGE OVER LEADERSHIP

Issue Raised When Party
Chief Objects To Catholic Attack

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—Democratic harmony, so much in evidence at the Jackson Day dinner here was threatened today because of the challenge flung at Senator Robinson of Arkansas, minority leader, by Senator Hefflin (D) of Alabama on the religious issue.

Party leaders had hoped that all such highly controversial questions would be left to the floor, but Hefflin stirred up the hottest political debate in months when he attacked the candidacy of Governor Smith of New York wholly on the ground of Smith's religion.

Hefflin demanded a roll-call to determine how many senators approved his stand on the Smith candidacy. This demand followed a ringing denunciation by Robinson of Hefflin's "anti-Catholic speeches."

The Alabama senator then called upon all Democratic members who took issue with him to stand up. No one arose.

Accepting this as a challenge to his leadership, Robinson promptly announced that he would call a conference of Democratic senators and defied Hefflin "to nominate another leader of the Democratic party here and see how far he gets."

Several moves were made by Democratic senators to have both Hefflin and Robinson initiate peace overtures on the plea that harmony was necessary if the party was to have any success this year.

It appeared that the rift would be quarrelled in the nature of a family quarrel which should be settled behind closed doors, so as to present an outward appearance of peace and quiet. There was nothing to indicate that Robinson would be displaced as floor leader of the party, although Robinson insisted upon forcing a vote on that point.

AUSTRALIAN AND AMERICAN FLYERS NEARING GOAL IN ATTEMPT TO SET ENDURANCE RECORD

MUNICIPAL AIRPORT, San Francisco, Jan. 19.—With their goal but a scant nine hours away, Captain Charles Kingsford-Smith, Australian airman, and Lieutenant George R. Pond, U. S. naval reserve flyer, were still soaring above the airport at 3:52 today, bundled in the cockpit of their giant Fokker monoplane, Spirit of California, in their attempt to better the world's record for continuous flying.

Although no radio message from the two hardy birdmen reached airport officials since two minutes after midnight, full confidence that all was well prevailed. Hopes of those watchfully waiting on the ground below that this, the fourth world's endurance effort on the part of the persistent pair, would be crowned with success, were bolstered up by the intermittently heard purring and droning of the three motors of the huge craft overhead.

The only mishap reported in the message to airport officials was the failure of the starboard generator of the motor. This necessitated the infrequent use of the radio transmitting set in order that the power might be diverted to the motors.

The message, crackling through the ether two minutes after midnight was full of confidence and optimism as were those which composed the continuous stream of wireless communication up to that point. Though it reported the mishap to the starboard generator, it did not fail to state that, otherwise, "all is well."

CHICAGO OUGHT TO GIVE ITSELF UP

CHICAGO, Jan. 19.—Chicago boosters who were framing a bid for the 1932 edition of the Olympic games as a sidelight of Chicago's world fair, scheduled for 1933, were thrown for a loss today when advice from Los Angeles reminded them that the movie city already has the 1932 event "in the bag."

Trustees of the proposed centennial celebration had authorized chairman Rufus C. Dawes to appoint a general sports committee to go after the Olympic event, asking the directors to postpone the meeting one year to coincide with the date of the world's fair.

Soldiers' Field and Grant Park, it was pointed out, was an ideal site for the great athletic event. It was emphasized that this meet has not been held in America since 1904 when St. Louis was honored. Then came the reminder that Los Angeles had practically closed for the 1932 meet.

FOUR PEOPLE INJURED WHEN TORNADO STRIKES CINCINNATI

CINCINNATI, O., Jan. 19.—Four people were injured, one seriously, a half dozen houses were torn down, and four persons were reported missing, as the result of a tornado which hit the northwest section of this city at 9:30 o'clock this morning.

Although no one was killed, according to early reports, four people had not been accounted for immediately afterwards. Mrs. Louisa Barnhart, an aged woman, was taken to a hospital where she was said to be in a serious condition.

Frank Thiele said he was on the front porch of his home when he saw a whirlwind approaching, a block away. He ran to the second floor of his home, called his wife and daughter, and took them to the back yard, he said, and a few minutes later the walls of his home collapsed.

Four or five other houses and a garage in the same vicinity were also blown over. Mrs. Barnhart, reported seriously hurt, was in the home of William Sielach.

PUPILS ENDANGERED AS WIND UN-ROOFS OLD TOWN SCHOOL

Children Escape Injuries—Damage Reported From Various Sections As Result Of Near-
Cyclone Thursday

Twenty-eight pupils in the Old Town grade school building, a one-story structure, were thrown into a panic when high wind of near cyclonic velocity lifted the roof and then set it down with such force that the rear brick wall threatened to cave in about 10 o'clock Thursday morning.

Quantities of plastering fell from the ceiling and walls, but nobody was injured. The children became panic-stricken and scrambled for the doors. Mrs. J. A. Wipert, this city, teacher, was unable to restore order but all of the pupils managed to find their way out of the building in safety.

The rear wall was caved in about three inches but did not collapse. Mrs. Wipert notified the Xenia Twp. Board of Education of the damage caused. Pending repairs to the structure, school sessions will not be resumed. No classes were held Thursday afternoon.

Several out-buildings were blown over and damaged on the school property. It is understood other damage was wrought in the village by the storm, several buildings being partly unroofed.

High wind with a strong velocity caused damage in scattered sections of the county. Part of the roof of the Orr Building, Cedarville, occupied by the B. H. Little grocery, was torn off by the wind. Several trees were uprooted in the vicinity of Cedarville and electric power was off for a time.

A door and a portion of the slate roof on a cattle barn on the Cloisette farm, near Bellbrook, were blown off. Anderson wholesale slaughterhouse, Lower Bellbrook Pike, were torn off. Several trees were blown down and electric wires were disconnected by the high wind in that section.

The roof on the barn of Mrs. Flora Berryhill, near Bellbrook was partly torn off and a chicken house on the George Quay farm near Bellbrook was damaged. Several telegraph and telephone poles near Bellbrook were blown down.

A window was blown in, several bricks torn from the chimney and the roof was slightly damaged at the Orient Hill School, Thursday morning about 10 o'clock. No one was hurt. A large tree was blown down on W. Second St., blocking the street and impeding traffic.

The paper on which the "closing argument" is written is reported to be in the possession of the district attorney's office here. Jail reports have it that Hickman has been rehearsing the lines he composed after the fashion of a tragedian mulling over their parts in the play. This recalls the fact that soon after his first confession, Hickman stated that he would conduct his own defense and had no need for an attorney.

"Cough Medicine" Is

Poisoning

CLEVELAND, Jan. 19.—Futile attempts of a former wealthy realtor to recover his broken fortune today was the cause advanced by authorities for the wiping out of an entire family of four here.

The dead, believed victims of a mysterious "cough medicine" poison, are: James Potter, 46, former banker and builder of Steubenville, O. Lulu Potter, 43, his wife. James Potter, Jr., 16, a son, high school student.

Robert Potter, 14, son, grade school student. Pending an official opinion, police were working on a theory that the elder Potter, recently reported to financial difficulties, had taken poison, and then persuaded the others to follow his action in the belief they were taking cough medicine.

Discovery of three glasses in the Potter bathroom, containing a strange liquid, added to this belief. D. L. Cowles, city chemist, declared. While Cowles was analyzing the contents of the glasses, police were tracing the Potters' past life.

The family, it was learned, came to Cleveland from Steubenville last December, and leased an apartment house. Advice from Steubenville today stated that Potter, once worth nearly $1,000,000, had been indicted by the Jefferson County Grand Jury there last week on a charge of fraudulent conversion of money.

Last night James Potter, Jr., staggered down a stairway from the second floor, screaming: "Daddy has given us some cough medicine. I can feel it coming on!" He collapsed near the foot of the stairway. Mrs. Potter followed her son, calling for help. She too collapsed shortly after attending the younger son, Robert, who lay on the floor groaning with pain. Hasty efforts to revive the victims proved unsuccessful and within a few minutes all were dead.

TORONTO SCHOOL GIRL THOUGHT VICTIM OF KIDNAPING FIEND

Missing Child Found Murdered After Attack—
Posses Seek Fiend—Girl Had Been Missing Ten Days

TORONTO, Jan. 19.—Revelation that 13-year-old Florence Costello, Toronto school girl, was abducted, held captive ten days, attacked, finally murdered and thrown into a creek near her home, threw this city into feverish excitement today.

The child's fate was disclosed at an inquest. Previously it had been thought that the girl had suffered one of her periodic epileptic fits en route home from St. Monica's Catholic School, fallen and broken her skull and had rolled into the creek where she was found.

Three weeks ago Florence failed to return home from school, where she had reported being ill and got permission to leave in early afternoon. Descriptions were broadcast for ten days and troops of Boy Scouts aided citizen posses in searching the north end of the city for a child known to be physically weak and subject to prostrating illness. Nothing resulted.

The three of Florence's former playmates stumbled upon a frozen gloved hand, sticking up through the ice in the creek within 200 yards from her home. They rushed to the Costello home with their discovery and the father chopped Florence's fully clothed body from the ice. A fracture was found on the back of the skull.

Dr. E. R. Frankish announced at the inquest that his autopsy had determined with certainty the child was murdered by a blow on the back of the head. There was no water in her lungs to indicate drowning.

The physician said she had been the victim of an attack. His evidence, he said, would be confirmed by other physicians. The inquest room was cleared of spectators while the autopsy evidence was being given. The coroners jury quickly returned a verdict of murder by an unknown person. Chief Coroner M. M. Crawford.

They had been gone but six days.

HOTELLING SPEEDS TOWARD PRISON TO BEGIN "HARD LABOR"

Jekyl-Hyde Hears Fate
In Fifteen Minute
Trial

ON BOARD TRAIN TO MARQUETTE PRISON, Jan. 19.—A weeping, broken murderer, closely guarded against lynching or self destruction, sped northward today to Marquette prison to spend the remainder of his life in atonement for the slaying of five-year-old Dorothy Schneider.

Every turn of the train wheels brings Adolph Hotelling, elder of the Owosso Church of Christ, closer to the "life of hard labor" to which he was sentenced yesterday after a fifteen-minute trial by Judge Fred W. Brennan at Flint.

And every clackety-clack of wheel on rail increases the despondency of the Jekyl-Hyde citizen of Owosso, Mich. He has sobbed almost continuously since he left the Flint courtroom yesterday for the auto trip to Bay City, where the transfer to the Michigan Central train was made.

None of the occupants of the private compartment reserved by the prison party slept last night. Mark Pailthorpe and Henry Unger, the two deputy sheriffs of Genesee County who brought about the capture of the carpenter-churchman, dared not relax their vigilance.

The last warning instructions given them at Bay City by Sheriff Green was: "keep your eyes open, bring his meals to him, and see that he doesn't slip silverware into his clothing."

As for the prisoner, sleep was driven from him by the haunting memory of the piteous cries uttered by the little kindergarten girl as he stabbed her viciously with a sharpened carpenter tool. With bowed head supported by his two hands he gazed away to sobs that racked his body.

The deputies expect to deliver their prisoner to Warden Corgan about 3 this afternoon—just a week after Hotelling mutilated the body of the little girl and tossed her into the ice-choked stream near her Mt. Morris home.

Suicide has been the dominant fear of the two deputies ever since they left Flint with their prisoner yesterday afternoon. The speeding automobile arrived in Saginaw at 3:45 p. m. where the party was received by Sheriff August Gungther.

Few in Saginaw knew of the arrival of the Owosso fiend, for Sheriff Green had carefully guarded his plans. Even so, there were rumors of a mob forming at Bay City to take the slayer when the transfer to the Michigan Central train was attempted.

HAVANA CONGRESS DOWN TO BUSINESS

HAVANA, Jan. 19.—The sixth Pan-American congress split up today into committees to start the real work of the conference.

The fanfare of trumpets, the flag raising, the diplomatic speeches—all these are ended. From now on for several weeks the representatives of the twenty-one American states are to battle it out in committee rooms in business clothes instead of the traditional frock coats of statecraft.

The most important of the committees are those dealing with the codification of international law and the future of the Pan-American union. The law committee, to which ex-secretary of state Charles E. Hughes assigned himself as chairman of the American delegation, will deal with interpretations of international law, a subject which constitutes intervention. The Pan-American union committee will deal with the question of making the union something besides an international academic debating society. Several of the smaller countries are insisting that the union be given arbitral powers of sufficient strength and scope to deal with such questions as the present situation in Nicaragua.

None of the occupants of the private compartment reserved by the prison party slept last night. Mark Pailthorpe and Henry Unger, the two deputy sheriffs of Genesee County who brought about the capture of the carpenter-churchman, dared not relax their vigilance.

The last warning instructions given them at Bay City by Sheriff Green was: "Keep your eyes open, bring his meals to him, and see that he doesn't slip silverware into his clothing."

As for the prisoner, sleep was driven from him by the haunting memory of the piteous cries uttered by the little kindergarten girl as he stabbed her viciously with a sharpened carpenter tool. With bowed head supported by his two hands he gave way to sobs that racked his body.

The deputies expect to deliver their prisoner to Warden Corgan about 3 this afternoon—just a week after Hotelling mutilated the body of the little girl and tossed her into the ice-choked stream near her home.

Suicide has been the dominant fear of the two deputies ever since they left Flint with their prisoner yesterday afternoon. The speeding automobile arrived in Saginaw at 3:45 p. m. where the party was received by Sheriff August Gungther.

Few in Saginaw knew of the arrival of the Owosso fiend, for Sheriff Green had carefully guarded his plans. Even so, there were rumors of a mob forming at Bay City to take the slayer when the transfer to the Michigan Central train was attempted.

HAVANA CONGRESS DOWN TO BUSINESS

HAVANA, Jan. 19.—The sixth Pan-American congress split up today into committees to start the real work of the conference.

The fanfare of trumpets, the polite assurances of regard, the flag raising, the diplomatic speeches—all these are ended. From now on for several weeks the representatives of the twenty-one American states are to battle it out in committee rooms in business clothes instead of the traditional frock coats of statecraft.

The most important of the committees are those dealing with the codification of international law and the future of the Pan-American union. The law committee, to which ex-secretary of state Charles E. Hughes assigned himself as chairman of the American delegation, will deal with interpretations of international law, including what constitutes intervention. The Pan-American union committee will deal with the question of making the union something besides an international academic debating society. Several of the smaller countries are insisting that the union be given arbitral powers of sufficient strength and scope to deal with such questions as the present situation in Nicaragua.

CHAPTER LXVI

"So you all think I'm like the Frazier girl," Lily repeated, slowly, hating to believe her ears. "But I don't understand you. How could anyone compare me with that awful creature?"

"Don't blame it on me—I never said you were like her," she answered, still flushed with embarrassment. "It was the rest of them. You know, I've been around Lily, working in some of the smart shops where all the women, or most of them, anyway, smoke and paint terribly, and don't wear any more clothes than the law allows. But Ma and Sadie Jefferson and people like them, just class you with the Frazier girl, because she's the only woman they know who does those things—except you."

Lily, still puzzled, shook her head. "Do they think I'm terrible because I don't wear a corset and because I smoke a cigarette?" Florence gave a little laugh. "Well, that isn't all of it," she explained. "Sadie knew you were running around with Drummond, and she made it a point to drop in at your flat unexpectedly to try to find him there. She never did, of course, but she saw those furs that he gave you—and some flowers, and so on. And then, when my mother found his wallet, I found among Pat's things she was terribly shocked that was just the last straw—for Ma."

Lily kept very still for a long time after she had finished her explanation. She began to see why Pat's family had thought she was like the Frazier girl. Because, in a way, she really was like her. She had money, and better clothes, but I was no better than she is when I was running around with Staley. She said to herself, suddenly, seeing herself through the eyes of the Frazier family and respectable Sadie Jefferson—"I'm not much better at any rate."

Above the shining water sink on the other side of the kitchen hung a square looking glass. It was not very large and the glass was wavy, but it served Lily's purpose now.

She got up from her chair and walked over to it, looking across the sink to study her face in its dim depths.

For weeks she had not thought of her "looks." For weeks she had never so much as lifted a powder puff across her nose or rubbed lipstick over her mouth. She had not had a "treatment" for her hair, or a manicure for her nails in her plain bungalow apartment, borrowed from Florence, she was utterly unlike the painted, scented, curled and slicked Lily that Staley Brummond loved and wanted to marry. She was beautiful, but she was beautiful in a different and less showy way than she ever had been before.

She laughed. "I don't look much like the Frazier girl now, do I, Florence?" she asked, and then, before Florence had time to speak in answer, she burst into another long peal of laughter.

She laughed and laughed, holding on to the sink with both hands to steady herself. Tears ran down her cheeks, and her face reddened with her laughter.

Florence stared at her. "What's the matter with you, you ciller?" she asked, plainly puzzled by Lily's wild outburst.

For weeks the house had been so quiet—so filled with hushed whispers and soft, slow footfalls that Lily's laughter seemed doubly loud in the little kitchen.

"Oh, it's so funny," she said, still panting after she had recovered herself. "All this time everybody, including myself, has been pitying me because I married Pat. Everybody thought I was ruining my life by marrying a poor cab driver—and yet you people were all pitying Pat because he had married me. You all thought he had married beneath him when he married a wild person like me, didn't you?"

"I wanted to be sure I didn't want it, Staley," she told him gravely. "Oh, no," Florence said, with emphasis. "I knew you were smart and well bred and all the rest of it. But the rest of them didn't. They just knew you looked like the Frazier flapper, and acted like her. They couldn't see the difference. My mother thinks there are just two kinds of women in the world—bad ones, like the Frazier girl, and good ones, like Elizabeth Ertz. The door opened and Elizabeth came in. Her face was ashen from lack of sleep, and her feet in their clean, white canvas shoes, dragged as if lead weights were tied to them."

"I'm dead," she announced, and dropped down upon a chair beside the kitchen table. "Absolutely dead. Could I have some coffee—the strongest the better?"

And then, after a minute, she added: "Dr. Billings thinks Pat is going to pull through. Of course, we can't know positively—but he says he has changed for the better, he thinks."

Lily clasped her hands, with their broken nails and their bruised knuckles, under her chin. She turned around with her back to the room, as if she were looking at herself in the mirror again.

But her eyes were closed and her head was bent above the clasped hands for a minute. For the first time in her life she really prayed. And the prayer was a prayer of thanks for Pat's life.

"Yes, he's changed for the better," Elizabeth's slow, weary voice spoke again, and Florence answered that she hoped from the bottom of her heart that he would go on getting better.

"And me—I've changed for the better, too," said Lily to herself, filled with relief and thanksgiving. Another ten days went by with Pat getting a little stronger every day. There were times when his fever rose, and he had to be given cooling baths and things to make him sleep. There were two times when Elizabeth Ertz telephoned in great haste for the doctor. But, for the most part, there was little anxiety in the house after that one night that had been filled with anxiety and worry.

And then on the first day of June Lily made her big decision. It was five o'clock in the afternoon of that day when she drove

"Yes—that was why I went, in the beginning," Lily said, going up the steps beside him.

It was his white linen jacket, flung open the front door, and his face was radiant with a smile of welcome that crinkled up his almond-shaped eyes at the corners and seemed to squeeze the rest of his face into a tight ball.

"Let's have some tea or something, shall we?" asked Staley, and they went into the big living room on the left side of the hall. It was filled with a heavy sweet odor of fresh-cut roses, and the late afternoon sunlight glided in with magic.

They sat down on a wide couch in the bay window, and Lily brought tea in with unbelievable swiftness.

"I phoned to tell him you were coming this afternoon," Staley said, in his quiet, courteous way, watching Lily pour tea for herself and a cocktail from a frosted silver shaker for him. "Aren't you drinking?"

Lily shook her head and tried to smile. "No—I'm a reformed character, Staley," she told him. "That's part of what I wanted to tell you today."

Staley raised his eyebrows and took three or four roses from a vase on the smoking table beside the lounge where they sat.

"Put these on, dear," he said. "Or—turn around and I'll pin them on your coat for you."

Lily held out her hand for them. "Let me take them," she said, not wanting him to touch her. She swung around and faced him squarely.

"Please listen to me. I told you I was a reformed character," she said, flushing with embarrassment. It was going to be painfully difficult to say all the things that were in her mind to Staley.

"Let me start from the beginning," she cleared her throat. "I told you I went down to the Frazier's house because I thought I ought to be there if Pat died—because it would look better if I were there."

Staley nodded and she went on. "Well, that isn't why I went. I thought it was the reason, but it wasn't. I went because I still loved him. I was angry with him, and I hated him, but I loved him, too."

She tossed her head. "I know you despise me for being like that, Staley, and I don't blame you. I've been unfair to you. I made up my mind to marry you twice, not because I cared so very much about you, but because—oh, I may as well be honest—because of all this."

Her hands took in the big room

"You've had Catarrh long enough—now take Hall's"

with a quick sweep. Her eyes ran over the fresh flowers, the deep-piled rugs, the hand-carved furniture, the heavy silk window curtains, tied back to show the gardens and the velvety lawns outside.

"I came here today to look at it all again," she explained, determined to tell him everything. "I wanted to ride in your car again and see all of the things that are yours and would be mine if that divorce of mine was granted and I married

you. I wanted to look at it all and be sure that I didn't want it." "And I don't," she told him gravely, after a second's pause. "I don't. I know I'll be a free woman in a while, for I'm going to go ahead and get it in case Pat wants to marry that Ertz woman—and I think he does. But I'll never be married to you, or to anybody, Staley. Never."

She stood up to go.

It was five o'clock in the afternoon of that day when she drove

"Yes—that was why I went, in the beginning," Lily said, going up the steps beside him.

It, in his white linen jacket, flung open the front door, and his face was radiant with a smile of welcome that crinkled up his almond-shaped eyes at the corners and seemed to squeeze the rest of his face into a tight ball.

"Let's have some tea or something, shall we?" asked Staley, and they went into the big living room on the left side of the hall. It was filled with a heavy sweet odor of fresh-cut roses, and the late afternoon sunlight glided in with magic.

They sat down on a wide couch in the bay window, and Lily brought tea in with unbelievable swiftness.

"I phoned to tell him you were coming this afternoon," Staley said, in his quiet, courteous way, watching Lily pour tea for herself and a cocktail from a frosted silver shaker for him. "Aren't you drinking?"

Lily shook her head and tried to smile. "No—I'm a reformed character, Staley," she told him. "That's part of what I wanted to tell you today."

Staley raised his eyebrows and took three or four roses from a vase on the smoking table beside the lounge where they sat.

"Put these on dear," he said. "Or turn around and I'll pin them on your coat for you."

Lily held out her hand for them. "Let me take them," she said, not wanting him to touch her. She swung around and faced him squarely.

"Please listen to me, I told you I was a reformed character," she said, flushing with embarrassment. "It was going to be painfully difficult to say all the things that were in her mind to Staley."

"Let me start from the beginning," she cleared her throat. "I told you I went down to the France's house because I thought I ought to be there if Pat died—because it would look better if I were there."

Staley nodded and she went on. "Well, that isn't why I went. I thought it was the reason, but it wasn't. I went because I still loved him. I was angry with him, and I hated him, but I loved him, too."

She tossed her head. "I know you despise me for being like that, Staley, and I don't blame you. I've been unfair to you. I made up my mind to marry you twice, not because I cared so very much about you, but because of you. I may as well be honest—because of all this."

with a quick sweep. Her eyes ran over the fresh flowers, the deep-piled rugs, the hand-carved furniture, the heavy silk window curtains, tied back to show the garden and the velvety lawns outside.

"I came here today to look at it all again," she explained, determined to tell him everything. "I wanted to ride in your car again and see all of the things that are yours and would be mine if that divorce of mine was granted and I married

you. I wanted to look at it all and be sure that I didn't want it." "And I don't," she told him gravely, after a second's pause. "I don't. I know I'll be a free woman in a while, for I'm going to go ahead and get it in case Pat wants to marry that Eriz woman—and I think he does. But I'll never be married to you, or to anybody. Staley. Never."

She stood up to go.

MEETING OF D. A. R. CHAPTER
Gathering of Catharine Greene Chapter, D. A. R., at the home of Mrs. Charles E. Fisher, W. Second St., Wednesday afternoon was unusual both in interest and attendance. Several guests were received, including Mrs. Fred Zartman, Franklin, a non-resident member.

Mrs. A. S. Frazer read the paper of the afternoon, one of the best ever presented to the club, showing splendid preparation. It was titled "The Landing of the Second Mayflower" and told of the settling of the Northwest Territory. "Ohio" was the first fruit of the Ordinance of 1787. Mrs. Frazer said, "and Rufus Putnam was the 'father of Ohio.'" After telling of the landing of the first Mayflower at these shores, Mrs. Frazer compared the trials and hardships of the settlement of this part of the country and at Plymouth.

She described the personality of Putnam and related his various successes and his demand for military precision. She spoke of Marietta, O., as "a New England town transplanted to the banks of the Muskingum." Mrs. Frazer also told graphically of the building of the Campus Martius. She told of the forces at work to form the Ordinance and the part Ohio played in forcing it through congress.

The annual business meeting was held after Mrs. Frazer's paper, and delegates to the State Conference at Cleveland, March 13-18 were first appointed. Mrs. S. O. Hale will be regent delegate and others will be Mrs. W. H. McGervey, Miss Sarah B. Williams and Mrs. C. L. Darlington. The alternates will be Mrs. J. D. Steele, Mrs. R. D. Adair, Mrs. C. L. Jobe, Mrs. M. W. Monroe, Mrs. A. S. Frazer, Mrs. Jacob Baldwin, Mrs. Mary Little Dice and Mrs. Charles Fisher.

Delegates to the Continental Congress, Washington, D. C., the week of April 16, were also chosen. Mrs. A. C. Messenger will be regent alternate with Mrs. William M. Wilson, delegate and Mrs. J. D. Steele, Mrs. H. H. Eaves, Miss Sarah Hagar, Mrs. J. A. Chew, Miss Esther Townsley, and Mrs. R. C. Jewell, alternates.

A box for Ellis Island was packed during the meeting, in charge of Mrs. Elbert L. Babb, who reported that Xenia merchants had been very generous in their donations of merchandise for the box. During the business session, plans were made to mark historical sites in Greene County, including that of the first Court House, on the Jacob Harbine farm, near Alpha. A bronze tablet will also be erected in the Court House, to the memory of the Revolutionary soldiers buried in this county. Two weeping willows will be planted in Shawnee Park, by the chapter which will also purchase a chair in Constitution Hall, Washington.

Mrs. A. L. Oglesbee, committee chairman, told of the success of the Southern Mountain School sale held recently by the chapter, through which three schools, Maryville, Nancy Hanks and Crossmore received money.

Mrs. Fisher was assisted in receiving her guests and in serving refreshments by Mrs. Charles Darlington, Mrs. C. L. Darlington and Mrs. H. A. Hoffman.

Another of the series on the lecture course at Caesarcreek High School will be given Saturday night, January 21, when the Glen Wells Co. will present a program of music and drama. This will be the last given by the Redpath Co., and the last number of the series will be a play by the high school.

Sixteen members of the New Burlington W. C. T. U., one honorary member and three guests met at the hospitable home of Mrs. Merle McIntire Tuesday, to celebrate "Victory Day." An interesting program was held and a collection taken for the "victory fund." Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess and her assistants.

CONDITION OF GIRL WHO TRIED SUICIDE BECOMES SERIOUS

The condition of Vesper Rosell, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Rosell, Ludlow Road, Junior student at Beaver High School, who is in McClellan Hospital here with a bullet wound through her head, was not as encouraging Thursday.

The girl is in a coma and attending physicians are not as hopeful for her recovery as they have been the last few days. The hope of relatives and doctors was buoyed by when she seemed to rally Tuesday, but her condition has gradually grown worse and physicians think they cannot save her.

Vesper was found Monday morning by her sister, Ocie, in the parlor of their home, with a wound from a .22 calibre rifle bullet in her head. Reason why the girl should attempt self-destruction has not been divulged. The bullet shattered the optic nerves and she would be blind if she lived.

Infant Care

Mothers, you can't start too early to establish a child's serene and tranquil disposition. Even an infant can have a happy, fretless state of uninterrupted health. What will help do this? A simple, purely vegetable product as old as you are: plain Castoria.

A few drops of Castoria will settle all uneasiness in a jiffy. Will dispel colic or ward off constipation; and just as surely check diarrhea.

In real sickness, call a physician. But many physicians urge only Castoria for those little childish disorders that need nothing more. You need never be afraid to give pure Castoria. It is safe and perfectly harmless, for it contains no paregoric, no opiates, no dope of any kind. At least, this is true of the genuine Fletcher's Castoria—and that is the kind doctors tell you always to buy.

Fletcher's Castoria is fine for any child. All children love to

One look at the new Essex Super-Six will convince you that it will excel in popularity the Essex which has just completed the most successful year ever achieved by a six-cylinder car.

From radiator to tail light it is a smarter, more beautiful car than even the Essex which preceded it. And in performance it surpasses in smoothness, reliability, speed and ease of handling, the standard Essex owners are so proud to acclaim.

You get an impression of completeness and fine quality in the design of every detail. From the new pattern Colonial lights—the higher, narrower radiator with vertical shutters—the heavy sweeping fenders—the rubber-covered running boards—the new improved steering mechanism and the steering wheel similar in design and construction to that now used on the very latest and very highest priced cars—there is outstanding reason for pride.

With all these advantages, there is also an amazing price reduction. The Sedan at $795 f. o. b. Detroit is $40 below the Sedan price of last year.

Infant Care

Mothers, you can't start too early to establish a child's serene and tranquil disposition. Even an infant can have a happy, fretless state of uninterrupted health. What will help do this? A simple, purely vegetable product as old as you are: plain Castoria.

A few drops of Castoria will settle all uneasiness in a jiffy. Will dispel colic or ward off constipation; and just as surely check diarrhea.

In real sickness, call a physician. But many physicians urge only Castoria for those little childish disorders that need nothing more. You need never be afraid to give pure Castoria. It is safe and perfectly harmless, for it contains no purgative, no opiates, no dope of any kind. At least, this is true of the genuine Fletcher's Castoria—and that is the kind doctors tell you always to buy.

Fletcher's Castoria is fine for any child. All children love to

Now Ready - a New ESSEX SUPER SIX

New Bodies—Larger and Roomier—
New Appearance from Radiator to Tail Light—
Finer Fittings—Four Wheel Brakes—
High Compression—Long Life Motor &
An Amazing Price

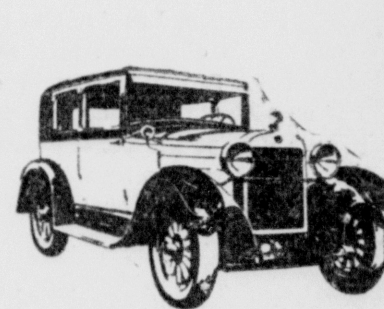

THE SEDAN, 4-Doors, in two shades of blue, with cream striping, is larger and roomier, with four fitting seats, wider doors, rich upholstery and appointments.

$795

THE COUPE has wide seat, ample luggage space in the rear deck, and a comfortable leather rumble seat which is removable.

$775

THE COACH is longer, wider, roomier—a full size five passenger Super-Six, as distinctive in appearance as it is practical.

$735

f. o. b. Detroit, plus dealer's excise tax

One look at the new Essex Super-Six will convince you that it will excel in popularity the Essex which has just completed the most successful year ever achieved by a six-cylinder car. From radiator to tail light it is a smarter, more beautiful car than even the Essex which preceded it. And in performance it surpasses in smoothness, reliability, speed and ease of handling, the standard Essex owners are so proud to acclaim.

You get an impression of completeness and fine quality in the design of every detail. From the new pattern Colonial lights—the higher, narrower radiator with vertical shutters—the heavy sweeping fenders—the rubber-covered running boards—the new improved steering mechanism and the steering wheel similar in design and construction to that now used on the very latest and very highest priced cars—there is outstanding reason for pride.

With all these advantages, there is also an amazing price reduction. The Sedan at $795 f. o. b. Detroit is $40 below the Sedan price of last year.

RADIO CHAOS LOOMS AGAIN

Last year congress enacted a law establishing a radio regulating commission which was to remain in existence only until March 15, 1928. The law was enacted after a deadlock over rival theories of regulation had endured for many months. It was a compromise measure which was entirely satisfactory to only a few. It was experimental and it was enacted only because it was apparent to all observers that anything was preferable to the growing chaos in the air.

Before the radio commission was set up, the regulation of broadcasting was in the hands of the department of commerce, which acted under authority of an act passed in the infancy of radio communication, before program broadcasting was dreamed of. Regulation by the department of commerce was fairly satisfactory and might have continued had not Judge Wilkerson in the Federal District court in Chicago ruled that the department was usurping powers of regulation which congress had not given it. Following that decision, new stations were created on every hand and the listeners were the victims. It became increasingly difficult to tune out interfering stations with even the most expensive and delicately adjusted receiving instruments.

It was in these circumstances that congress enacted the law setting up a commission of five with limited powers to rule the air. Under the regulations of that commission great progress has been achieved. Unless its life is extended by congress, the commission goes out of existence on March 15 and doubt has already been raised of the validity of its acts. That doubt has been strengthened by failure of the senate to confirm the appointments of three of the four men now serving on the commission.

Meanwhile, the interests of the vast audience of radio listeners are being neglected. This audience is estimated at 30,000,000 in the United States and it is impossible to believe they are without power to avenge themselves if, through the tactics of a few senators, chaos is restored. It is safe to say that there is no other legislation now before congress which is of concern to so many citizens or upon which they are so likely to have equally strong opinions. Senators who are directly responsible for the delays may not be the only ones to suffer if confusion in the air again becomes the rule.

WHEN COURTS GO WRONG

Many persons are inclined to be despondent about our American system of jurisprudence when there is an obvious and scandalous miscarriage of justice. A notorious crook murders his wife and is acquitted by a sentimental jury sitting around a Christmas tree, and we hear again, "Our courts are terrible. No justice in them."

The conclusion isn't warranted. Let us say, rather, that our courts are human. Men and women make a mess of it rather often when they try to judge one another's motives and degrees of guilt.

But our courts do remarkably well, considering that they are not endowed with more than human wisdom. Professional juries might be better than amateur juries. A bench of three or five judges, probably would render more just verdicts than under the existing system. It's easy to suggest changes, but quite often the changes, when made, are disappointments.

The Way of the World

By GROVE PATTERSON

SPOTLIGHT

Hickman, Los Angeles murderer, was over-fond of publicity, says one of his observant high school teachers. He would even make up small lies to put himself in a spectacular light. The love of publicity is an unfortunate characteristic and a bad sign. If your boy or girl leaves the spotlight it is probable he has a temperament that may some day get him into trouble.

In the end you will be judged on what you have done and not on what the papers say about you.

TELLING EVERYBODY

The American Association for the Advancement of Science met recently in Nashville. There are 2,000 members in the association. Twelve hundred scientific papers, aggregating 3,000,000 words, were taken to the convention. Here were gathered many men who do the creative thinking for the rest of us. The problem is how to bring their findings into the common stream of thought. How are the rest of us going to be told what is new and what is best? It is a real problem for the better newspaper. More space must be given to matters of scientific importance. Less space to police news.

PROGRESS

Dr. Frank Billings, able and aged Chicago physician, sums up the progress of the last half century. He says: "The accomplishments of the last 50 years in the development of the physical and natural sciences and in preventive and clinical medicines have been greater and more beneficial to mankind than the discoveries of all previous recorded time."

In 1854, the year Dr. Billings was born, the plagues of cholera and yellow fever ravaged the earth. In a cholera epidemic in this country 900 died in Chicago and 650 in Brooklyn. Yellow fever raged in New Orleans. Men living today have seen these plagues conquered and made to disappear.

Within the lifetime of a man born in 1854 have come the telephone, the incandescent light, the internal combustion engine, the motor car, the airplane, wireless, radium, the X-ray.

What a period to live in!

HEROES

While J. E. Nordin, Missouri inventor, was warming up a new kind of airplane engine it exploded and nearly killed him. He calls his machine a "self energizing" airplane. People will laugh at him. But it's a fine thing for the rest of us that some inventors are willing to be laughed at, called crazy, and even lose their lives in order that the rest of us may learn something new.

The Daybook

OF A

New Yorker

—By—
BURTON RASCOE

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—Eight years ago I saw a play called "A Young Man's Fancy" in which a moonstruck hero fell desperately in love with a wax mannequin in a show window. The mannequin was played with daintiness by Jeanne Eagels, later raucously of "Rain," and the play, which seemed to me utterly delightful, was a complete failure. I am always reminded of the concept when, during a walk down Fifth avenue, I observe all the sad young men standing in lack lustre fashion outside the flamboyant shop displays of Bonwit Teller, Franklin Simons, or Russek & Co. Truly, as many men as women pause to give eye to the fashion show, and I must confess, myself, to having a certain hidden passion for a dark-haired puppet with an Anita-Loes hair cut who wears a black velvet frock for the benefit of Avedon & Co. I often wish "A Young Man's Fancy" might be revived by an ingenious manager who would see in it all the amusement and pleasant fantasy I did. Miss Eagels, being on the up and up, probably would not care to do the part again, but I can think of several minor actresses who would fit the role as Gilda Gray fits a grass skirt.

"If I had to do over again I would marry a rich man," says my friend, the artist. For sixteen years she had struggled desperately in New York to raise a young daughter by hand. The man she married was charming, unimportant, and had a natural distaste for work. Early in the game, he vanished into the mists, and his woman has made her valiant way alone through some of the most incredible hardships. New York, she found, was quite a different place to live as a mother and breadwinner than it had been to her as a careless young student. She has lived in dreary furnished rooms, she has posed for fellow artists, she has camped in the studios of friends when she couldn't pay her rent, she has addressed envelopes, taken care of children, taught painting, she has done plain sewing, has even waited on tables, and a cheap tea room—all to rear her child in decency. And the verdict she renders upon New York seems to me an uncannily true one. "It's a grand place to be if you're successful, on top of the heap," she says. "You don't need to be rich, but you must have a job and know amusing people. If you're poor and shabby and hungry, you just naturally get that underdog look your friends dread." I think the most gallant gesture a woman can make in this day and age is to bring up a girl child, unaided, in the city of New York.

Who ever hears, any more, the expression "lazy galoot"? It was a popular one in my childhood. I used also to love the picturesque implications of lally-gagging, which my Irish friends employ to mean dawdling along. And "streeeling" is another gaudy word to mean about the same as "lally-gagging." The humorists who indicate the nationality of their comic characters by the thrifty use of "wurr, wurr, wurr" and "shure" have never dipped into the delightful Celtic stories of Somerville and Ross, who know their Irish inside out. My friends among the Celts do say "musha" as a substitute for the "wurr, wurr" which one finds only on the printed page. "Musha" has a force and a picturesqueness all its own.

Galvin's, the florist in Forty-sixth street just off Fifth avenue, is displaying these days a bouquet of exquisite flowers, a paragraph all of its own. The flower is sunset color, a blending of pink and golden, truly marvellous. This rose rivals the miniature orchids in Kottmiller's and the gardenias at the House of Thorley.

Monte Carlo
Oleander trees grow wild along the mountain road, built by Napoleon, from Nice to Monte Carlo. These were the first oleander trees I had seen since the last time I was thrown in an intimate way with the specimen that made its winter quarters in a tub in the basement of my boyhood home. Each autumn we moved it where it would be safe from blighting frost and the following spring bore it again into God's sunshine. It was always my job to help move it, and that task became increasingly onerous, year after year, as the tree kept outgrowing its tub and requiring a larger size. My heart sank when I saw oleanders flourishing along this mountain roadside, and at first I could not figure out why they depressed me. I must have been wondering in my subconscious mind if each one would have to be placed in a tub and dragged into somebody's basement before the frost comes.

About one-third of the roulette players at the Monte Carlo gambling casino, the day I was there, were old women, and they made me think of the scrub women who work at night in big office buildings, so drearily did they seem to view the problem before them.

How to Achieve Beauty

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

MAKE-UP FOR YOUR MORNING SPORTS OR SHOPPING
When you prepare your face for the bright daylight of the street, you must take still more pains than for the intimacy of your own home. You will want one to stand the wear and tear of the wind and weather, and the activity of doing things. It must be more adherent to the face. For extremes of weather; the burning sun of summer or the cold winds of winter, every woman should use a protective powder base, especially if she has a naturally delicate, sensitive skin. The skin of a baby is lovely and satin-smooth because it doesn't have to stand the ravings inroads of the weather. Compare it with the hardened, weather-beaten, furrowed skin of the seasoned fisherman. The very word "weatherbeaten," which you will find in ever so many descriptions of mariners and fishermen, should be a warning to women who wish to keep the kind of skin that is clear and smooth and soft.

But you should be sure that your powder-base is protective, and not a mere vanishing cream with its drying properties. The best kind for winter is a semi-liquid balm that has softening qualities.

After your foundation, apply your rouge-en-creme. Then place your puff in the powder box, and "set" it on each cheek, on your forehead and on your throat. Now start spreading it with the puff until you have a smooth surface. Work it into the cranialles around your nose.

with your fingertips. Remember, no powder on your eyelids. They must be given a soft look, and powder is too likely to make them appear harsh and hard. If you use eye shadow, apply just a little of the eye shadow cream on the upper part of your lids. Many women like to put a hint of rouge beneath their eyebrows to give a warmer look. If you do not care for eye shadow, leave the faintest film of cream on your eyelids. To darken your lashes, I advise an eyelash grower and darkener in cream form, instead of mascara, for day-time. The brows can be touched up a little with an eyebrow pencil.

A bright spot of lipstick is always pretty for sports or on the street. The use of lipstick is so general in this day that many women do not feel altogether dressed unless they have their lips well made up when they go out. But be sure that the edges are smooth and that the color carefully follows the natural outlines of your lips.

Be sure to examine your make-up carefully, in front of a window that has a strong morning light, before you venture out. Get a profile as well as a front view. Your profile is really the best test of your make-up, and if you see any harsh edges, tone them down a little.

Before you go out, be sure to tuck a rouge and powder compact into your bag for the touch-up that you will need well away from home.

The subject of my talk tomorrow will be "Make-up for Lunch and the Afternoon Tea."

Diet and Health

By LULU HUNT PETERS M. D.
Author of "Diet and Health" and "Diet For Children"

And Was Never Knocked Down
"Young Griffo, who just died of heart disease, was never knocked down for 16 years, and was never knocked down," I'm quoting from a newspaper caption.

Griffo, as you know, was a noted pugilist (and therefore an athlete), and he died at 55, which is far too young for one to die. His death is going to deepen the impression that athletes die young. Is it true?

The woman who cared for Mr. Griffo in his later years, is quoted: "Mr. Griffo was a fine man. He loved to sing and dance with the children. He got terribly heavy his last years, but even with his 250 pounds he was quick and light on his feet. He ate so much—I've seen him eat a whole loaf of bread and two pounds of meat at a meal, and then go out and buy doughnuts and coffee."

From this you can see that while Young Griffo was never knocked down by human opponent he was knocked down by his appetite, long before he was knocked down by the Reaper.

The late Payne Whitney was also an athlete. He died at 51. The paper spoke of him as a tall, heavy-set man, and he died of heart failure or acute indigestion.

Walter Camp, a noted athlete, also died suddenly long before his time. Walter Camp was also overweight.

Deaths from heart disease are increasing. The point I want to bring out in this paper is, that if athletes do die before their time, it is not necessarily because they are athletic and have strained their hearts by their activities, but because they have strained their hearts by habits which are detrimental, and which would strain any heart. The fact that a heart is well developed and athletic is no more reason that it should be attacked by disease than it would be that any other well developed organ should be attacked by disease.

There are many well-known athletes who are still alive and are hale and hearty—William Muldoon, for instance, who, I read, is an undefeated wrestling champion of the world, and is now 82 years of age and is still active; and James Corbett, 60, and as active as he was in his younger days. George Sotah looks as young and is as flexible

(the actor), while not known as an athlete, is an athlete. I saw him performing at a benefit recently. He is as slender as a boy, and dances as well as he ever can. In a study made by John Gaines and Arthur Hunter of the 808 men who had participated in the athletics of Yale up to the year 1904, it was found that the mortality in this group was only 44 percent of that which was to be expected among presumably healthy men. A Harvard investigation showed approximately the same figures.

In an article in the American Medical Journal of October, 15, 1927, on the increasing mortality from heart disease, Dr. Eugene Lyman Fisk, in his discussion, is quoted as follows: "The highest rate of heart disease is found among the sedentary workers; the lowest is found among those engaged in outdoor occupation. In the study of 13,000 who had periodic health examinations, the high blood pressure group showed one outstanding characteristic—that of overweight; in the overweight group high blood pressure was an outstanding characteristic."

I want you to notice from now on, when pictures are shown of prominent men and women who die prematurely from heart disease and apoplexy, what a very large proportion show overweight.

Now I don't want you to think, from my emphasis on overweight as a cause of heart disease, that it is the only cause. It isn't, by no means. However, overweight (and the wrong diet and the lack of exercise that brings it on) is one of the big causes. This must be true, for the mortality from heart disease is two and a half times greater in the obese than it is in those of normal weight—(Henry John).

Obesity is one of the causes of heart disease that we can absolutely do away with. Have you our condensed instructions on reducing? If not, send ten cents in coin, with a fully self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request, and we will send it.

NOTE:—Please send ten cents in COIN and fully self-addressed stamped envelope, with orders for pamphlets on reducing and gaining.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—Theoretically it takes congress to declare war. Under the constitution, the president can't do it. Yet he can begin one. He can't issue a declaration, but he can start the fighting. As commander-in-chief of the national military establishment, he can order the army, the navy, the marines or all three of them into action.

In such a case it's natural to expect the other side to strike back. There's your war. Declared or not, it's raging.

If it's a dinky little affair, the permanent forces at the president's disposal may be able to go ahead and finish it, and congress never have a word to say about it.

If it swells up into something formidable and more men are absolutely necessary—or we're licked—then it's up to congress. But at that stage of the game, how's congress going to back pedal? The war's on. Right or wrong, it has to be gone through with—at least, in the present state of human nature.

So nothing's left for congress to do but back the president up, as they say—vote the declaration that the administration's management has led up to, follow it up with an army and provide the required amount of money, regardless of its opinion of the merits of the controversy.

That's what one of the biggest of the present rows in Capitol Hill's about—the president's power to shape his policies so that the country may have to follow him into what he isn't supposed to have the right to decide on—war.

The rumpus arises from our little campaign in Nicaragua.

Some say it's war. Some say it isn't. It certainly will call for no congressional declaration. Nicaragua's population is a little more than Pittsburgh's, or Buffalo's; not as much as Cleveland's, St. Louis or the Borough of the Bronx's. The police force of any large American city could handle it if it were bunched together.

Still, a good many congressmen call it a war—"in principle" anyway.

Whatever it is, or isn't, it's the administration's. Congress was not consulted.

Accordingly that element on Capitol Hill which doesn't like the administration any too well is demanding that the president be deprived of his authority to use the army, the navy or the marines for belligerent purposes except with congress' permission.

Of course this won't be done. There'll be a lot of oratory on the subject, but no action. There wouldn't be much point in having marines, in particular, if they couldn't be used in an emergency.

Nevertheless, the fact remains that the president has decidedly the first guess on a war, ahead of congress.

It's open to question if we'd have marines in Nicaragua now if President Coolidge had known this thing would blow up just as he was starting for Havana, to soft soap Latin America.

It's gummed his cards scandalously.

The president's been putting in overtime for several months past, trying to counteract the effects of Secretary of State Kellogg's previous Latin-American activities, but he didn't work fast enough.

Living and Loving

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

Parents Do Not Approve

It's too bad that parents and children can't be enamored of the same persons. 'Twould save much anguish of spirit to all concerned. But it cannot be. Parents have their own peculiar ideas, and young friends do not always measure up, and so there is "weeping, wailing and gnashing of teeth" by the children who love, possibly, "not wisely but too well."

"Dear Mrs. Lee: For the past two years I have been keeping company with a young man whom my parents do not approve of. He is five years my senior. We have talked of marriage, but my parents will not consent, although they do not give me any reason for their disapproval. The last time we were together, he wanted me to marry him against my parents' wishes, but I would not consent. He said that since I have seen nothing of him, I miss him much for I loved him greatly. I am dissatisfied with EVERYTHING. Dear Mrs. Lee, could you suggest some way for me to gain his attention again?"

BETTY LOU.

Well, Betty Lou, dear, suppose before you try to get him back, you try to find out just what your parents object to in the young man. Unless they are very unusual parents they must have some reason, and you may be surprised to find it is a good one.

They can hardly expect you to give up your friend without good grounds. Put it up to them like that, and see what they say.

A lonely girl signs herself as "A Constant Reader." Why not join a class in Sunday school or Y. W. C. A., or if that does not appeal to you, aren't there some pleasant girls in your neighborhood with whom you could get acquainted.

Round Steak Brown Stew—Pound flour into both sides of a thick steak about two inches thick, using as much as the meat will take up; also salt and pepper both sides, put in a frying pan with butter or other fat and brown both sides just a little; then add water to cover it. Cover the dish and allow to simmer two or three hours until tender. Ordinarily it is ready to serve when the meat is done, as gravy is already thickened.

Peter's Adventure

By MRS. FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

LATE BIRD AND EARLY WORM

The sobbing sneeze went floating along on the morning air and Peter shivered. Crow flapped his wings.

"What if you are lonesome! You don't have to make a fuss about it, do you, Screech Owl?" heaved a sigh. "Here you were just finding fault with me for croaking about being hungry and now you wail mournfully. Why, I couldn't sound so dismal if I tried. What is the reason that your lady love will pay no attention to you?"

"Oh dear me! I don't know," replied Screech Owl sorrowfully. "I haven't any lady love, I told you, and I can't get one—now. Last night I tried my best and winked in my best fashion at a lovely young Owllet, but she wouldn't even look at me. I felt very forlorn, I can tell you."

"Well, cheer up Screech Owl," said Peter hastily, fearing that the fellow would give that dreadful wail again. "Better days are coming for us all. Soon Crow can find all the food he can eat; you will woo and win a mate, and as for me—well, I shall be able to go swimming in the pool."

"That's right, Two Legs. You look on the bright side of things, don't you?" declared the Crow. "But as interesting as all this talk is, it is not helping me to fill my wife's stomach, nor for that matter, my own. I rose with the sun this morning, for well I know that it is the early bird that catches the worm."

"But you get out of bed in the night," said Crow. "And of course none of the worms are out then—they are all asleep. I will tell you another thing, and that is that you never will find the early worm! That is, of course, unless you change your habits and get up in the morning."

"But I couldn't do that!" declared Screech Owl. "I wouldn't be true to myself if I did. Like an honest owl I must sleep all day. I shall give up looking for the early worm. My own belief is that there isn't any such thing."

"Every bird has a right to his opinion," said Crow. "And if you take my advice you will stick to your word and not waste any more time looking for something you'll never find. Better for you to spend your nights in your usual way. But I must be off. Wife will be looking for me. Would you like to come, Two Legs? I am sure my mate would like to thank you for sending her the bread crumbs."

"I should like to meet Mrs. Crow," cried Peter eagerly. "Is your home far away?"

"Not very far, Two Legs," answered his new friend. "Right over yonder in the woods. We are roosting as a flock now. When warm weather comes wife and I will build a nest of our own."

Famous Autos Defeat Miamisburg Here 41 To 40

ONE POINT VICTORY GRABBED BY LOCALS AS CONTEST CLOSES

Teams Tied Most Of Way—Gegner Leads Attack

LARGE crowd saw the Famous Auto Five, Xenia independent basketball team, triumph over Miamisburg 41 to 40 in an exciting game at Central High School gymnasium Wednesday night.

The lead alternated from one team to the other throughout the contest with the rival quintets never separated by more than a few points. Only through a desperate last-quarter rally did Xenia accomplish its well-learned victory.

The teams were tied 11 to 11 the first quarter and again 20 to 20 at the half. Miamisburg took a seven-point lead in the third period but Xenia spurred and overhauled the visitors in the final chukker.

Miamisburg presented an array of former high school stars, including Wheeler, Cartwright and Kauffman, members of the famous high school quintet of several years ago. Wheeler, playing a forward position, was the outstanding star of the game, collecting nine baskets and two fouls for twenty points. Kauffman followed with eight markers and Cartwright seven.

Robert "Butch" Gegner, was Xenia's scoring ace with seven fielders and a foul for fifteen points. Fred "Bull Dog" Smith was runnerup for scoring honors with fourteen points, followed by Leopold with eight.

Wheeler sank a long shot to start the ball rolling. This was offset by Gegner's short shot. Wheeler hit the net again from mid-floor and followed with a free throw. Cartwright sent in a long one from the side court and Smith made good a close-in shot. Leopold replaced Yeakley for Xenia.

DiMatteo shot a foul and Smith duplicated for Xenia. Smith also registered a fielder. Kauffman and Smith tallied baskets as the quarter ended.

As the second period opened, Leopold and Gegner made consecutive baskets. The former then registered again from the field. Weade broke the tie with a free throw for the visitors. Wheeler hit the net and Gegner made a charity shot. Wheeler hit the net twice and Gegner once as the half ended.

The second half was a repetition of the first, each team scoring about the same number of points as in the preceding two periods.

Wheeler started the fireworks with a short shot. Smith shot a foul and DiMatteo sank a long shot. Kauffman and Wheeler caged long shots. Gegner caged two straight fielders, Smith did likewise and Leopold made a short one.

Kauffman registered twice, one a long shot and the other a short one. Gegner looped in one from long range and Vannorsdall broke into the scoring column with a long shot.

Leopold made good a short shot and Henry, subbing for DiMatteo, made a free throw. Gegner again hit the net. Cartwright first missed and then made a basket. Vannorsdall came through with what proved to be the winning basket.

Fighting desperately to overcome the five point lead in the few remaining seconds of play, Wheeler registered a long shot and then a short one as the gun cracked.

The U. B. F. "35" colored basketball team nosed out in a preliminary contest. Mowen led the winners with eight points while Cain scored the same number for the losing team.

CEDARVILLE BEATS RIO GRANDE 27-25

Cedarville College returned to winning form by defeating Rio Grande College 27 to 25 in a basketball game Wednesday night at Alford gymnasium.

The "Yellow-Jackets" were leading by the apparent comfortable margin of 18 to 7 at the half in the second half, however, the visitors came from behind and threatened to snatch victory from defeat.

In the preliminary, the college girls defeated the Ohio Bell Telephone Co. girls' team from Springfield 26 to 1, encountering but feeble opposition. The visiting sextet registered a foul goal to avert a shutout.

Cedarville's next game is with its traditional foe, Antioch College's Division "B" team at Yellow Springs Wednesday night, January 25.

St. Brigid Tossers Meet Dayton Celts

St. Brigid High School basketball tossers, undeterred by their first reverse of the season in the exciting game with St. Joseph High of Springfield this week, will strive to atone for this setback Friday night, meeting the University of Dayton Junior Celts at the university gym in Dayton.

St. Brigid's first victory this season was recorded over the University of Dayton Sophomore Celts by a decisive margin and the local Parochial school quintet hopes to duplicate against the juniors.

The team's next home game is tentatively arranged for an early date in February.

Wheeler, playing a forward position, was the outstanding star of the game, collecting nine baskets and two fouls for twenty points. Kauffman followed with eight markers and Cartwright seven.

A THREE DAYS COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

Famous Autos Defeat Miamisburg Here 41 To 40

ONE POINT VICTORY GRABBED BY LOCALS AS CONTEST CLOSES

Teams Tied Most Of Way—Gegner Leads Attack

LARGE crowd saw the Famous Auto Five, Xenia independent basketball team, triumph over Miamisburg 41 to 40 in an exciting game at Central High School Wednesday night.

The lead alternated from one team to the other throughout the contest with the rival quintets never separated by more than a few points. Only through a desperate last-quarter rally did Xenia accomplish its well-earned victory.

The teams were tied 11 to 11 at the first quarter and again 20 to 20 at the half. Miamisburg took a seven-point lead in the third period but Xenia spurred and overhauled the visitors in the final chukker.

Miamisburg presented an array of former high school stars, including Wheeler, Cartwright and Kauffman, members of the famous high school quintet of several years ago.

Wheeler, playing a forward position, was the outstanding star of the game, collecting nine baskets and two fouls for twenty points. Kauffman followed with eight markers and Cartwright seven.

Robert "Butch" Gegner, was Xenia's scoring ace with seven fielders and a foul for fifteen points. Fred "Bull Dog" Smith was runnerup for scoring honors with fourteen points, followed by Leopold with eight.

Wheeler sank a long shot to start the ball rolling. This was offset by Gegner's short shot. Wheeler hit the net again from mid-floor and followed with a free throw. Cartwright went in a long one from the side court and Smith made good a close-in shot. Leopold replaced Yeakley for Xenia.

DiMaggio shot a foul and Smith duplicated for Xenia. Smith also registered a fielder. Kauffman and Smith tallied baskets as the quarter ended.

As the second period opened, Leopold and Gegner made consecutive baskets. The former then registered again from the field. Weade broke the tie with a free throw for the visitors. Wheeler hit the net and Gegner made a charity shot. Wheeler hit the net twice and Gegner once as the half ended.

The second half was a repetition of the first, each team scoring about the same number of points as in the preceding two periods.

Wheeler started the fireworks with a short shot. Smith shot a long shot. Kauffman and Wheeler caged long shots. Gegner caged two straight fielders, Smith did likewise and Leopold made a short one.

Kauffman registered twice, one a long shot and the other a short one. Gegner looped in one from long range and Vannorsdall broke into the scoring column with a long shot.

Leopold made good a short shot and Henry, subbing for DiMaggio, made a free throw. Gegner again hit the net. Cartwright missed and then made a foul and followed with a neat basket. Vannorsdall came through with what proved to be the winning basket.

Fighting desperately to overcome the five point lead in the few remaining seconds of play, Wheeler registered a long shot and then a short one as the gun cracked.

The U. B. F. "35" colored basketball team nosed out the "Scrubs" 19 to 18 in a preliminary contest. Mowen led the winners with eight points while Cain scored the same number for the losing team.

The lower classmen were out in front for practically the entire distance until the tag end of the contest when the juniors forged into the lead.

McPherson, junior forward, was easily the outstanding star of the contest. He rang up five baskets for more than half of his team's points. Zell also turned in a fine exhibition for the winners. Dinwiddie and Lorimer were the mainstays for the fresh.

Lineups and summary: Freshmen (16) Juniors (18) Dinwiddie 1 f. Zell Lorimer 1 f. McPherson Dice 1 g. Stevens Ball 1 g. Wood Shaffer 1 g. Adair Field goals—McPherson 5, Zell 1, Stevens 1, Snyder 1, Chambliss 1, Lorimer 2, Dinwiddie 2, Ball 2, Dice 1. Foul goals—Dinwiddie 1, Michael 1.

Substitutions: Freshmen—Price for Shaffer; Michael for Price; Leo Mar for Ball, Juniors—Grandin for Stevens; Jones for Adair; Snyder for Jones; Chambliss for Wood; Adair for Grandin. Referee—Victor Kolb.

WITHROW HIGH TEAM SIGNS CONTRACT FOR GAME WITH CENTRAL

Withrow High School of Cincinnati has been added to the 1927-28 basketball schedule of Central High School. It is announced by Principal Louis Hammerle.

The contest will be played at Central High gym Saturday night, February 18.

Scheduling of the Withrow game marks the opening of basketball relations with the "Tigers." These relations, begun in football two years ago, are expected to be continued in the future in both sports.

Principal Hammerle also announces that season tickets for Xenia's home games this season will also be recognized for the Withrow contest, giving local fans extra value for their money.

Addition of Withrow to the schedule increases the number of games to be played by Central to sixteen for the season, including nine at home and seven on foreign floors.

Two other changes in the season's schedule are also announced. Xenia will meet Piquette High School here Tuesday night, February 21 instead of Friday, February 24, while the date of the Xenia-Sidney game to be played at Sidney has been changed from Saturday, February 25 to Friday, February 24.

These changes were found necessary because of conflict with basketball tournaments arranged in Xenia and Sidney which will require use of the gymnasiums of the two schools, it is announced.

CENTRAL WILL PLAY SECOND LOOP GAME AGAINST TROY HIGH

Central High School basketballers will engage in their second game in the Miami Valley League of High School Athletics Friday night meeting Troy High School at the local gymnasium.

The Blue and White won its first league game from Greenville handsily and is favored to repeat against Troy.

Coach Kolb's outfit has now completed a winning streak of two straight games, having beaten Greenville and also shattered a two year "jinx" by defeating the University of Dayton Preps in a foul shooting contest last week.

The season's record now stands at two victories against four defeats. After a bad start, the local quintet has at last rounded into form and hopes for a successful season are revived.

The squad has been hard at work in practice this week in order to be in the best of shape for the Troy contest.

BOWLING

Interesting rivalry again featured the weekly Business Men's League bowling match at the Recreation Parlors Wednesday night. Three teams occupied the alleys and every game was closely contested. The outstanding achievement of the evening was a 212 score recorded by Addison. Box score:

CEDARVILLE BEATS RIO GRANDE 27-25

Cedarville College returned to winning form by nosing out Rio Grande College 27 to 25 in a basketball game Wednesday night at Alford gymnasium.

The "Yellow-Jackets" were leading by the apparent comfortable margin of 18 to 7 at the half. In the second half, however, the visitors came from behind and threatened to snatch victory from defeat.

In the preliminary, the college girls defeated the Ohio Bell Telephone Co. girls' team from Springfield 26 to 1, encountering but feeble opposition. The visiting sextet registered a foul goal to avert a shutout.

Cedarville's next game is with its traditional foe, Antioch College's Division "B" teams at Yellow Springs Wednesday night, January 25.

ST. BRIGID TOSSERS MEET DAYTON CELTS

St. Brigid High School basketball tossers, undeterred by their first reverse of the season in the exciting game with St. Joseph High of Springfield this week, will strive to atone for this set-back Friday night, meeting the University of Dayton Junior Celts at the university gym in Dayton.

St. Brigid's first victory this season was recorded over the University of Dayton Sophomore Celts by a decisive margin and the local Parochial school quintet hopes to duplicate against the Juniors.

The team's next home game is tentatively arranged for an early date in February.

MOTHERS, DO THIS—
When the children cough, rub Musterole on their throats and chests. No telling how soon the symptoms may develop into croup, or worse. And then when you're glad you have a jar of Musterole at hand to give prompt relief. As first aid, Musterole is excellent. Keep a jar ready for instant use.

It is the remedy for adults, too. Relieves sore throat, bronchitis, tonsillitis, group, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, chilblains, frosted feet and colds of the chest (it may prevent pneumonia).

To Mothers: Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

A THREE DAYS COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL
Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.
Of known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.
Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

TONY SARG TO SHOW MARIONETTES HERE AT CENTRAL SCHOOL

Tony Sarg, celebrated magazine illustrator and Marionette impresario, will present his little wooden, headed actors in a dramatization of "All Baba and the Forty Thieves" at Jean H. Elwell Auditorium, Central High School Thursday and Friday, February 2 and 3.

Three performances will be given. The Thursday evening entertainment is open to the public. An admission of 50 and 75 cents will be charged.

Special performances will be given for the grade school children Friday morning, February 3, and in the afternoon for the high school student body.

The well-known story from the "Arabian Nights" lends itself exceptionally well to puppet presentation. Mr. Sarg and his corps of skilled mechanics have labored for the last six months to make this new show even more wonderful and interesting than the earlier plays, "Rip Van Winkle," "Don Quixote" and "Treasure Island," that have toured the country from coast to coast so successfully during the last four or five seasons.

"All Baba and the Forty Thieves" is said to be the last word, as it were, in Marionette achievement. Mr. Sarg has created one of the most villainous set of robbers ever seen on the stage, an extensive menagerie of donkeys, lions, camels, sheep, dogs and even snakes, which all play important parts in the unfolding of the story.

Among the animals, a beautiful white elephant is scheduled to perform some amazing feats. The Geni and the Fisherman, Sinbad the Sailor and all the characters recorded in the Arabian Nights have been faithfully reproduced on the fascinating little Marionette stage.

All the stage settings as well as the "props" for the different scenes, are constructed to scale with true artistry.

Marionettes are one of the oldest forms of theatrical art. They date back in church and secular history beyond the Middle Ages when they were popular particularly in connection with religious celebrations.

Tony Sarg is largely responsible for the revival of this art in the United States. At first developed by him purely as a hobby to afford a relief for him from his more serious work as an illustrator for "The Saturday Evening Post" and other magazines, they have grown to such popularity as an entertainment feature that a coast to coast tour has been in order every season.

Their visit to Xenia is looked forward to with deep interest by local entertainment-lovers.

Uncovers Tragedy

A 77-years-buried trace of the famous Bennett expedition which burned its wagons in Death Valley and struck out on foot overland for Los Angeles with the children and a few personal belongings on oxen back, has been found by A. F. Eads, veteran prospector, who dug up the hand-forged oxen chain shown above. It is the only known existing trace of the expedition.

CUTICURA HEALS LARGE PIMPLES

On Neck, Chest, Arms, Itching and Burning Caused Discomfort.

"My trouble began with pimples breaking out on my neck, chest and both arms. They were large and hard and festered. The itching and burning caused discomfort at night, and my clothing aggravated the breaking out for a time."

NEW GAZETTE STORY STARTS TOMORROW; IS "JACK AND JILL"

It has often been said, supposedly on good authority, that "When poverty comes in at the door, love flies out of the window."

But it is a poor rule, and a poor maxim, that won't work at least two ways.

Examples of this are shown in the numerous cases on record where love has been driven from house and home through the baleful influence of suddenly acquired riches. It is not the money, necessarily, that brings about this condition, but the evils that money so often attracts.

The psychology of this situation is the basis of the new serial story, "Jack and Jill," which the Gazette will introduce to its readers Friday. "Money Love," one of the most popular stories ever written by Beatrice Burton, comes to a close Friday. It has held the attention of readers through many weeks.

The new story is by Clifford Webb, author of "Broken Threads," "Twin Loves," "The Sob Sister," and other stories that have proved his ability as a newspaper serial writer. Webb believes he has done his best work in his new story and his publishers feel that it will exert a greater appeal as a newspaper serial than any of his previous stories.

Generous installments of "Jack and Jill" will be published daily in this paper. The story runs fifty-four chapters, and is illustrated by beautiful photographs of the characters and scenes. This newspaper recommends it to its readers as a delightful story of love and romance with which to while away these evenings at the far end of winter.

EQUALIZATION FEE MAY BE DROPPED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—Abandonment of the equalization fee by backers of the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill became a strong possibility today as many powerful former supporters of the bill swung into line for a compromise.

An overwhelming sentiment in the house agriculture committee for the enactment of a bill which President Coolidge will sign was disclosed in a committee poll.

Recognizing the seriousness of the situation, Rep. Haugen (R) of Iowa, chairman of the agriculture committee, announced that he is willing to drop the equalization fee "if we can get something just as good."

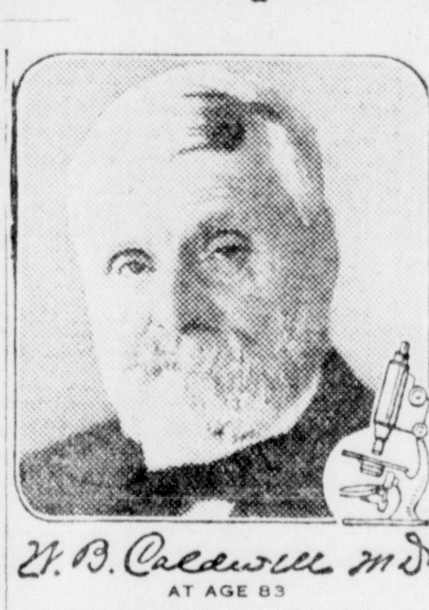

Then, the treatment of constipation, biliousness, headaches, mental depression, indigestion, sour stomach and other indispositions that result from constipation was entirely by means of simple vegetable laxatives, herbs and roots. These are still the basis of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is a combination of senna and other mild laxative herbs, with pepsin.

Dr. Caldwell did not approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for human beings to put into their system. If grown people want to use them no one can deny them the privilege, but they should never be given to children.

The simpler the remedy for constipation, the safer for the child and for you, and the better for the general health of all. And as you can get results in a mild and safe way by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, why take chances with strong drugs? All drug stores have the generous bottles.

We would be glad to have you prove at our expense how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can mean to you and yours. Just write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, and we will send you prepaid a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE.

CLUE TO MISSING GIRL PROVES FALSE

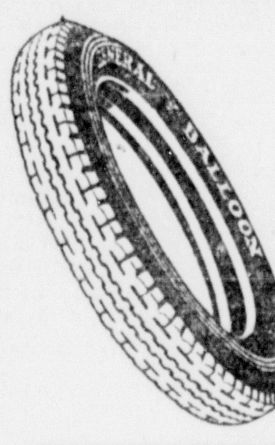

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Jan. 19.—What was regarded by investigators as "the most promising clue" in the mysterious disappearance of Miss Frances St. John Smith was shattered today when word came from Troy, N. Y., that the girl resembling the missing college freshman, who registered at the Hendriks Hudson Hotel, was Miss Pauline Orsh, New York City cloak model Saturday.

Troy police had been in communication by telephone with Miss Orsh, who was at Troy Friday night, returning to New York on Saturday.

FOUR MONTHS "Winter Mileage"

FREE

Right now, and for the next four months, you need the safety of new rubber and non-skid protection more than any other time of the year. Treads that are worn smooth make dangerous driving in ice, snow and slush.

Putting on new Dual Grip Generals now, you can drive the next four months with no appreciable wear because good rubber shows practically no wear in cold weather. In addition to having perfect non-skid protection during the bad months you can start the Spring season with tires still practically new and ready for a year or two. You can figure your four months winter mileage on Dual Grip Generals as free.

Your worn tires not only make winter driving risky but increase gasoline consumption with excessive slippage on wet streets. Drive in today. Let us take off your worn tires, make you a full allowance for the unused mileage left in them and put on a new set of Dual Grip Generals that will give you the maximum in non-skid protection.

With the rubber price now above 40 cents per pound, tires are still selling at prices set when rubber was 34 cents.

TONY SARG TO SHOW MARIONETTES HERE AT CENTRAL SCHOOL

Tony Sarg, celebrated magazine illustrator and Marionette impresario, will present his little wooden-headed actors in a dramatization of "All Baba and the Forty Thieves" at Jean B. Elwell Auditorium, Central High School Thursday and Friday, February 2 and 3.

Three performances will be given. The Thursday evening entertainment is open to the public. An admission of 50 and 75 cents will be charged.

Special performances will be given for the grade school children Friday morning, February 3, and in the afternoon for the high school student body.

The well-known story from the "Arabian Nights" lends itself exceptionally well to puppet presentation. Mr. Sarg and his corps of skilled mechanics have labored for the last six months to make this new show even more wonderful and interesting than the earlier plays, "Rip Van Winkle," "Don Quixote" and "Treasure Island," that have toured the country from coast to coast so successfully during the last four or five seasons.

"All Baba and the Forty Thieves" is said to be the last word, as it were, in Marionette achievement. Mr. Sarg has created one of the most villainous set of robbers ever seen on the stage, an extensive menagerie of donkeys, lions, camels, sheep, dogs and even snakes, which all play important parts in the unfolding of the story.

Among the animals, a beautiful white elephant is scheduled to perform some amazing feats. The Geni and the Fisherman, Sinbad the Sailor and all the characters recorded in the Arabian Nights have been faithfully reproduced on the fascinating little Marionette stage.

All the stage settings as well as the "props" for the different scenes, are constructed to scale with true artistry.

Marionettes are one of the oldest forms of theatrical art. They date back in church and secular history beyond the Middle Ages when they were popular particularly in connection with religious celebrations.

Tony Sarg is largely responsible for the revival of this art in the United States. At first developed by him purely as a hobby to afford a relief for him from his more serious work as illustrator for "The Saturday Evening Post" and other magazines, they have grown to such popularity as an entertainment feature that a coast to coast tour has been in order every season.

Their visit to Xenia is looked forward to with deep interest by local entertainment-lovers.

ALLEGED MURDERER DEMANDS NEW TRIAL IN NORTH CAROLINA

RALEIGH, N. C., Jan. 19.—Is six hours sufficient time in which to apprehend a murder suspect, try him, convict him and sentence him to death?

This is a question that will have to be decided by the North Carolina Supreme Court at an early date.

The case involves the appeal of Larry Newsome, 32-year-old negro, convicted of the gruesome murder of Beulah Tedder, 15, Wayne County, white girl, for a new trial.

Newsome, following one of the most spectacular trials on court record, was sentenced to die on that doubly hoodooish day, Friday, January 13, but appeal by his counsel automatically stayed execution until the supreme court acts one way or the other in the case.

Unusual Incidents

Several factors, outside the speed in which Newsome was caught and sentenced to die, go to make the case one of the most unusual ever recorded in North Carolina.

Newsome was captured and sentenced to die during what is believed to have been the first Sunday court session ever held in North Carolina.

A short while before the jury received the late of the negro, an armed mob attempted to take him from the little courtroom at Goldsboro.

Magdrama marked the unusual court scene. The revolt of outraged citizens threw the courtroom packed to suffocation, into panic.

Eric Tedder, father of the girl, and William, a brother, led a mob in an attempt to take the negro from the prisoner's dock. Shots of "get him" came from the crowd.

Audience Scatters

The audience broke and rushed for exits as shots were fired into the ceiling and a rush call for the Goldsboro unit of the national guard was sent out.

Officers formed a guard around the prisoner, heading off the would-be lawbreakers and presently Newsome was whisked into an adjoining room where a heavy guard was placed over him until troops arrived.

A gray-haired jurist, Judge Henry A. Grady, former head of the Ku Klux Klan in North Carolina, brandished a pistol from the bench as he called for order, and kept the huge, automatic within easy reach during the remainder of the turbulent session.

The jury returned a verdict of guilty in fifteen minutes.

FREED OF CHARGE

ASHLAND, O., Jan. 19.—Harold C. Benninghof, former clerk of Montgomery Township, was exonerated today of charges of embezzling $375 from township funds. The jury which tried him brought in a verdict of not guilty late yesterday, after four hours deliberation. Benninghof was township clerk from 1922 to 1926.

VETERAN MASON DIES

CHARDON, O., Jan. 19.—Funeral services for M. E. Newell, who had been a member of the local Masonic lodge since 1859, will be conducted here today. Newell had been in the harness business here forty years.

To Stage Debate

"Is Man a Machine?" is the subject of a debate between Clarence Darrow, Chicago lawyer, and Rabbi Barnett R. Brickner, of Cleveland, O., to be held at the latter city Feb. 9. Rabbi Brickner is at top and Darrow, below.

of the Coleridge-Taylor School of Music, Chicago, and Mr. John Greene, baritone opera singer, also of Chicago.

A turkey dinner was served including all the delicacies of the season. A plum pudding sent to Miss Ferguson from Mr. John Payne, baritone, of London, England, furnished a rare feature of the dinner.

The guests present were the Messrs. Theodore Taylor and John Greene, Chicago; Dr. and Mrs. Geo. Henderson, Prof. and Mrs. A. J. White, Mrs. Anna Terry and Mrs. Ada Young of Wilberforce; Dr. William Madison, Miss G. Marie Bolden, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Clark, Miss Maude Nickens, Mrs. Tillie Ferguson and Miss Helen Ferguson.

After dinner the guests of honor entertained with music. Mr. Taylor pleased with his piano selections while Mr. Greene charmed with his baritone solos.

Monday, January 16 was the occasion and the home of Miss Ferguson, the scene of another notable social event, when Miss Ferguson was the hostess at a "Musical Soiree" given for her guests of honor, the Messrs. Theodore Taylor and John Greene of Chicago.

Fifty-eight guests were received by Miss Ferguson.

The hostess was attired in a gorgeous costume of French model, with gold lace over gold cloth, with beads to match and wore pumps of black satin with black malle bows.

The rooms of her home were attractively decorated with gold, black and white streamers, the color of the harp.

The following program was rendered:

A few minutes with Messrs. Taylor and Greene, Chicago, Ill. Uniquely designed programs typified by Miss Eileen Hudson, secretary of East High School and decorated with various drawings by Miss Edna Greene of the 1928 graduating class of East High School, were given the guests.

A delicious two course luncheon was served following the program after which the guests departed.

The Messrs. Taylor and Greene gave a musical recital in East High School, Monday afternoon before an enthusiastic and appreciative audience.

Prof. Arthur Taylor, principal of the school welcomed the musicians and told of the work of the school.

Mrs. George Stevens, E. Third St., in company with her mother, Mrs. Nancy Glynn of Detroit, Mich., was called to Hazard, Ky., on account of the illness and death of Mrs. Glynn's brother, Mr. Curtis Crawford, Mrs. Glynn has returned to her home after spending a few days the guest of her son-in-law and daughter.

Mrs. Nancy Holden continues very ill at her home on E. Church St.

The Rev. E. W. B. Curry, pastor of the Second Baptist Church, Springfield, accompanied by the choir of that church held an excellent service Sunday afternoon with the Zion Baptist Church, which is now the midst of an old-fashioned revival service.

The pastor, the Rev. A. L. Dooly, preaches each evening.

Miss Adel Curry of Springfield, was the guest Sunday and Monday of Miss Zeida Boothe, Williams Ave.

Remains of Curtis Duncan, 36, formerly of Xenia, who died in Waukegan, Ill., Tuesday morning, will arrive in Xenia, Thursday morning at 9 o'clock and funeral services will be held at the Third Baptist Church Thursday at 2 p. m. Burial will be made in Cherry Grove Cemetery.

BACKACHES WERE SLOWLY KILLING ME

"I was almost laid out with the terrible pains and stiffness in my back. I had just about given up hope of getting relief when a neighbor gave me a bottle of 'St. Jacob's Oil' to rub on my back. I got immediate relief and have enjoyed perfect comfort since."

It's a pity that everyone with Backache, Lumbago, Rheumatism and Neuritis doesn't know about "St. Jacob's Oil." Its action is amazing. Without burning or blistering the skin, it penetrates to the affected part and draws out the pain like magic. If you want to know what relief is, go to your druggist and get a small trial bottle of "St. Jacob's Oil" and apply it to any aching spot. —Adv.

ALLEGED MURDERER DEMANDS NEW TRIAL IN NORTH CAROLINA

RALEIGH, N. C., Jan. 19.—Is sixty hours sufficient time in which to apprehend a murder suspect, try him, convict him and sentence him to death?

This is a question that will have to be decided by the North Carolina Supreme Court at an early date.

The case involves the appeal of Larry Newsome, 32-year-old negro, convicted of the gruesome murder of Beulah Tedder, 15, Wayne County, white girl, for a new trial. Newsome, following one of the most spectacular trials on court record, was sentenced to die on that doubly hoodooish day, Friday, January 13, but appeal by his counsel automatically stayed execution until the supreme court acts one way or the other in the case.

Several factors, outside the speed in which Newsome was caught and sentenced to die, go to make the case one of the most unusual ever recorded in North Carolina.

Newsome was convicted and sentenced to die during what is believed to have been the first Sunday court session ever held in North Carolina.

A short while before the jury reached the fate of the negro, an armed mob attempted to take him from the little courtroom at Goldsboro.

Melodrama marked the unusual court going. The revolt of outraged citizens threw the courtroom packed to suffocation, into panic.

Eric Tedder, father of the girl, and William, a brother, led a mob in an attempt to take the negro from the prisoner's dock. Shots of "hot lead" came from the crowd.

Audience scattered. The audience broke and rushed for exits as shots were fired into the ceiling and a rush call for the Goldsboro unit of the national guard was sent out.

Officers formed a guard around the prisoner, beating off the would-be brothers, and presently Newsome was whisked into an adjoining room where a heavy guard was placed over him until troops arrived.

A gray-haired jurist, Judge Henry A. Grady, former head of the Ku Klux Klan in North Carolina, brandished a pistol from the bench as he called for order, and kept the huge automatic within easy reach during the remainder of the turbulent session.

The jury returned a verdict of guilty in fifteen minutes.

FREED OF CHARGE

ASHLAND, O., Jan. 19.—Harold C. Benninghof, former clerk of Montgomery Township, was exonerated today of charges of embezzling $375 from township funds. The jury which tried him brought in a verdict of not guilty late yesterday, after four hours deliberation. Benninghof was township clerk from 1922 to 1926.

VETERAN MASON DIES

MRS. JAMES HARRIS
Correspondent

TEL. 91-R

Mrs. Mamie I. Gaines, E. Market St., is spending a week or ten days with her son, Ward and family in Columbus. Before returning she will visit with relatives in Mt. Vernon, O.

The Women's Mutual Benefit Society will meet Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Emma Robinson, E. Market St.

Mrs. N. C. Johnson, 116 Columbus Ave., has been commissioned by Thomas W. Barton, M. D. Royal Prince of the American Mysteries as deputy and solicitor of Greene Co., for both men and women members of the order.

The residence of Miss Helen Wheeler Ferguson, 525 E. Market St., teacher of French in East High School, was the scene of an elaborate dinner party, Sunday, January 15.

The dinner was given in honor of Mr. Theodore Taylor, president of the Coleridge-Taylor School of Music, Chicago, and Mr. John Greene, baritone opera singer, also of Chicago.

A turkey dinner was served including all the delicacies of the season. A plum pudding sent to Miss Ferguson from Mr. John Payne, baritone, of London, England, furnished a rare feature of the dinner.

The guests present were the Messrs. Theodore Taylor and John Greene, Chicago, Dr. and Mrs. Geo. Henderson, Prof. and Mrs. A. J. White, Mrs. Anna Terry and Mrs. Ada Young of Wilberforce; Dr. William Madison, Miss G. Marie Bolden, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Clark, Miss Maude Nickens, Mrs. Tillie Ferguson and Miss Helen Ferguson. After dinner the guests of honor entertained with music. Mr. Taylor pleased with his piano selections while Mr. Greene charmed with his baritone solos.

Monday, January 16 was the occasion and the home of Miss Ferguson, the scene of another notable social event, when Miss Ferguson was the hostess at a "Musical Soiree" given for her guests of honor, the Messrs. Theodore Taylor and John Greene of Chicago.

Fifty-eight guests were received by Miss Ferguson.

The hostess was attired in a gorgeous costume of French model, with gold lace over gold cloth, with beads to match and wore pumps of black satin with black maline bows. The rooms of her home were attractively decorated with gold, black and white streamers, the color of the harp.

The following program was rendered:

Instrumental—Thorne

La Siere—Prof. William Sykes

Vocal—Mr. William O. Rickman.

Prof. R. A. Braxton

A few minutes with Messrs. Taylor and Greene, Chicago, Ill. Uniquely designed programs typified by Miss Eileen Hudson, secretary of East High School and decorated with various drawings by Miss Edna Greene of the 1928 graduating class of East High School, were given the guests.

A delicious two course luncheon was served following the program after which the guests departed.

The Messrs. Taylor and Greene gave a musical recital in East High School, Monday afternoon before an enthusiastic and appreciative audience.

Prof. Arthur Taylor, principal of the school welcomed the musicians and told of the work of the school. Mrs. George Stevens, E. Third St., in company with her mother, Mrs. Nancy Glynn, of Detroit, Mich., was called to Hazard, Ky., on account of the illness and death of Mrs. Glynn's brother, Mr. Curtis Crawford, Mrs. Glynn has returned to her home after spending a few days the guest of her son-in-law and daughter.

The Married Ladies' Afternoon Club will meet Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Catherine Taylor, E. Market St.

Mrs. Nancy Holden continues very ill at her home on E. Church St.

The Rev. E. W. B. Curry, pastor of the Second Baptist Church, Springfield, accompanied by the choir of that church held an excellent service Sunday afternoon with the Zion Baptist Church, which is now in the midst of an old-fashioned revival service.

The pastor, the Rev. A. L. Dooly, preaches each evening.

Miss Adel Curry of Springfield, was the guest Sunday and Monday of Miss Zelda Boothe, Williams Ave.

Remains of Curtis Duncan, 36, formerly of Xenia, who died in Waukegan, Ill., Tuesday morning, will arrive in Xenia, Thursday morning at 9 o'clock and funeral services will be held at the Third Baptist Church Thursday at 2 p. m. Burial will be made in Cherry Grove Cemetery.

BACKACHES WERE SLOWLY KILLING ME

"I was almost laid out with the terrible pains and stitches in my back. I had just about given up hope of getting relief when a neighbor gave me a bottle of 'St. Jacob's Oil' to rub on my back. I got immediate relief and have enjoyed perfect comfort since."

It's a pity that everyone with Backache, Lumbago, Rheumatism and Neuritis doesn't know about "St. Jacob's Oil". Its action is amazing. Without burning or blistering the skin, it penetrates to the affected part and draws out the pain like magic. If you want to know what relief is, go to your druggist and get a small trial bottle of "St. Jacob's Oil" and apply it to any aching spot.

JAMESTOWN BRANCH LIBRARY WILL OPEN FOR PUBLIC MONDAY

Beginning Monday, January 23, the Jamestown branch of the Greene County Library will be open to all who wish to make use of it at the following times:

Monday—12:30-1:45 and 4:00-6:00
Wednesday—12:30-6:00
Thursday—12:30-4:00
Friday—12:30-6:00

It is believed people of the community will find Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 4:00 to 6:00 the most convenient times for visiting the library.

For several weeks the library has been open to the children of the various schools but it was thought best to wait until after the Christmas vacation before opening it to the public.

There will be no red tape in connection with this branch.

The following rules govern the use of books at the branch:

1. Any resident of Greene County may use the branch free except those living in Cedarville and Sugar Creek Townships.

2. Applicant must sign name and address to registration card. This will enable applicant to borrow books at once if over fourteen years of age. Children must not draw books until parent's signature is affixed to registration card.

3. Books may be borrowed for a week. Unless renewed at the end of two weeks or returned a fine of two cents a day will be charged.

4. Books desired by any borrower and not in local branch may be obtained through local branch free of charge. If however books are obtained from the State Library or other libraries outside the county the cost of transportation from such a library and return must be borne by the one requesting these books.

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 19.—Because a woman decided she was tired of hearing a Bach or Beethoven symphony sandwiched in between a "blues" number and a comic monologue, vespers hour concerts by nationally known artists are being presented each Sunday afternoon from Radio Station WHK, Cleveland, from 4:15 to 5:15 o'clock.

Vespers hour was chosen to present an entire program of concert music because it is the time of the day when people are in the mood for that type of music.

Programs have been worked out by Mrs. Franklyn B. Sanders, director of the Cleveland Institute of Music, the woman who was "tired of blues."

Among the artists to be heard during the winter months are Beryl Rubinstein, American composer and pianist; Victor DeGomez, cellist; Marcel Salinger, baritone; the Ribapierre quartette, and Joseph Fuchs, violinist.

HATCHABILITY OF EGGS

The hatchability of eggs depends, not on unknown causes as often supposed, but on the proper feeding and handling of the breeding flock, according to D. C. Kennard, in charge of poultry investigations at the Ohio Experiment Station.

"Until recently poor hatchability," he says, "was blamed on the weather and unknown causes or factors over which we have no control. In the light of present information if 40 or 50 per cent of the eggs fail to hatch we must assume that it is due to faulty feeding and management."

"Extensive tests by the Ohio Experiment Station have shown that direct sunlight, good alfalfa or clover hay, green feed, milk, and potent cod-liver oil are factors that can be utilized in securing good hatchability."

"From January to April the birds must be exposed to direct sunlight in the house and in the out-door sun parlor on the south side of the poultry house. The sunlight to be of value must not pass through window glass."

"They should have all the good quality legume hay they will eat. Milk also proves beneficial. Cod-liver oil, if potent, can often be used to advantage with the legume hay and direct sunlight."

"If the birds can have access to a range of bluegrass, rye, wheat, or barley whenever the weather permits it will be a great help. The best insurance for hatchable eggs and vigorous chicks is the proper use of all these essentials."

The voice currents are again amplified for the telephone link to London, and then continue to Margate where they enter a submarine telephone cable and travel under water sixty miles to emerge at Ostend, Belgium. They continue by wire seventy miles to Brussels and twenty-nine miles farther to Antwerp. On the return trip the voice currents branch off at London to Rugby, where the radio transmission station is located, and are picked up in this country at Houlton, Me., from where they are carried 600 miles to New York and thence to the subscriber.

HOW TO FIGHT EXCESS FAT

There are hard ways, like starvation, but fewer and fewer employ them. There is a pleasant way—modern and scientific, which combats the cause. A vast number of people now use it. And the slender figures now seen everywhere are largely due to that.

That method is embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. People have used them for 20 years—millions of boxes of them. And everybody, in almost every circle, sees the change. New beauty, new health, new vitality.

Each box of Marmola contains the formula, also the scientific reasons for results. So users have no fear of harm. Learn the facts about Marmola, because of the good it has done. Ask your druggist—now—for a $1 box with the book. Then decide.

HATCHABILITY OF EGGS

The hatchability of eggs depends, not on unknown causes as often supposed, but on the proper feeding and handling of the breeding flock, according to D. C. Keenard, in charge of poultry investigations at the Ohio Experiment Station.

"Until recently poor hatchability," he says, "was blamed on the weather and unknown causes or factors over which we have no control. In the light of present information if 40 or 50 per cent of the eggs fail to hatch we must assume that it is due to faulty feeding and management."

"Extensive tests by the Ohio Experiment Station have shown that direct sunlight, good alfalfa or clover hay, green feed, milk, and potent cod-liver oil are factors that can be utilized in securing good hatchability.

"From January to April the birds must be exposed to direct sunlight in the house and in the outdoor sun parlor on the south side of the poultry house. The sunlight to be of value must not pass through window glass.

"They should have all the good quality legume hay they will eat. Milk also proves beneficial. Cod-liver oil, if potent, can often be used to advantage with the legume hay and direct sunlight.

"If the birds can have access to a range of bluegrass, rye, wheat, or barley whenever the weather permits it will be a great help. The best insurance for hatchable eggs and vigorous chicks is the proper use of all these essentials."

XENIA NATIONAL GUARD UNIT TO HELP RELIEVE MINE STRIKERS

Following a proclamation issued by Governor Vic Donahey calling attention to the existence of a great amount of suffering from general unemployment in certain sections of Ohio, Company L, 147th Infantry, Ohio National Guard, has agreed to co-operate with the National Guard of Ohio in helping to relieve the situation.

In the governor's proclamation, it is pointed out that more or less unemployment exists everywhere. In many communities, especially in the coal mining regions, the financial resources have become exhausted, with the result many children are at the point of starvation for want of food and suffering from lack of clothing.

Captain Ozni H. Cornwell, commander of the local guard unit, has also received a letter from the state adjutant general's department, calling attention to the necessity for children's relief.

Company L expects to establish headquarters at its local Armory for obtaining donations of clothing and shoes for all needy children from the age of 16 years down to infants, non-perishable food supplies and donations of cash.

All donations of food and clothing will be assembled at the local armory. Every cent received in donations will be expended for relief.

Greene Countians wishing to donate commodities—food or clothing or both—may send them to the Armory.

Persons desiring to contribute money may send their checks, drafts and money orders in care of Captain O. H. Cornwell, made payable to the "Adjutant General of Ohio, Custodian of Children's Relief Fund."

Only perishable food can be satisfactorily handled, it is pointed out.

Songs of a Housewife

BY MARJORIE K. RAWLINS
EARTH'S CHILDREN

THESE are Earth's children: leaves and fruits and flowers,
Nursed by the rain and sun's good nurturing;
Earth blossoms fair in those maternal hours,
Proud of her children, when men say "It's Spring!"

Apples have fallen ripely to the ground;
The ruddy, weary maple leaves lie deep;
The snow's warm blanketings will wrap them 'round;
Earth's red-cheeked children have come home to sleep.

To sleep—to plant their seeds, enrich her soil,
New beauty to the next new year to give;
Earth is repaid for all her love and toil—
Her immortal children have come home—to live!

SCOUT MEETING AT DR. GALLOWAY HOME INSTEAD OF CABIN

Due to inclement weather, the open Scout meeting Thursday night at 7:30, to be featured by a talk by George F. Miller, New York City, deputy regional Scout executive, will be held at the home of Dr. W. A. Galloway, W. Market St., instead of the new Scout cabin. It is announced.

Mr. Miller will explain a plan to put Xenia into a new Scout district being formed, which would make this city eligible to receive part-time assistance from a Scout executive.

This district would also include Wilmington, Springfield, Urbana, which have already approved the plan, and Bellefontaine, which is considering the proposal. Approval of each city must be obtained. All Xenians, including parents of Scouts and citizens, interested in the plan, are invited to attend the meeting. A community committee will be organized to back the plan.

WANT TO TALK WITH BELGIAN KING?

Want to talk with King Albert of Belgium or his son, Prince Leopold?

Just connect yourself with your local exchange and ask for the connection to either Brussels or Antwerp.

Long distance telephone service was extended to the continent Thursday morning, according to announcement of H. W. Cleaver, Xenia commercial manager of the Ohio Bell Telephone Co.

The new service is an enlargement of the service to England, and Belgium becomes the fifth foreign nation brought within speaking distance of the Ohio home. The connection is made through England by using the trans-Atlantic radio telephone link and service is available from 6:30 a. m. to 7:30 p. m. Eastern Standard time, daily.

The rate will be $1 for the first three minutes, $3 higher than a London call and will be $27 a minute for each minute thereafter, or $1 more than a London call. The method for picking the call is the same as to any other long-distance point.

From the subscriber's telephone the voice currents travel by wire to the local exchange and then to the New York long distance office. The trans-Atlantic trip begins here over a seventy-mile circuit to Rocky Point, L. I., where the power of the voice is amplified a hundred million times and converted to radio waves which are picked up by a radio receiver at Cupar, Scotland, one-sixtieth of a second later.

The voice currents are again amplified for the telephone link to London, and then continue to Margate where they enter a submarine telephone cable and travel under water sixty miles to emerge at Ostend, Belgium. They continue by wire seventy miles to Brussels and twenty-nine miles farther to Antwerp. On the return trip the voice currents branch off at London to Rugby, where the radio transmission station is located, and are picked up in this country at Houlton, Me., from where they are carried 600 miles to New York and thence to the subscriber.

HOW TO FIGHT EXCESS FAT

There are hard ways, like starvation, but fewer and fewer employ them. There is a pleasant way, modern and scientific, which combats the cause. A vast number of people now use it. And the slender figures now seen everywhere are largely due to that.

That method is embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. People have used them for 20 years—millions of boxes of them. And everybody, in almost every circle, sees the change. New beauty, new health, new vitality.

Each box of Marmola contains the formula, also the scientific reasons for its use. So users have no fear of harm. Learn the facts about Marmola, because of the good it has done. Ask your druggist—now—for a $1 box with the book. Then decide.

PONDER PAROLED AFTER SENTENCE

Vance Ponder, colored, indicted by the January grand jury for carrying concealed weapons, was sentenced to serve from one to three years in Ohio State Penitentiary and then paroled in Common Pleas Court Tuesday.

Ponder complied with stipulations of the court that he pay an alternative fine of $50 and costs. He pleaded guilty to the indictment.

BRINGING UP FATHER

Old Familiar Faces Beginning to Disappear From the Silver Screen

Time marches on!
And nowhere is this more evident than in Hollywood, cradle of the jumping celluloids, where favorite of today is forgotten on the morrow.

The year 1928 will probably mark the passing of a record number of names—stars who have done much to make film history.

POLA "BREAKS DOWN"
Famous Players have refused to exercise a costly option on Pola Negri's services. Pola responded with a "nervous breakdown." She's trying to shake off her plague in Hawaii. But the chances are that Princess Mdivan's just about through with American flicker fans. So's her sister-in-law. By which is meant Mae Murray.

CHARLIE OUT, TOO
Charlie Ray lost everything but the initials on his pajamas when he tried producing on his own hook. He made a stab at a come-back, but now he's in New York, and it's said that he will be seen on the "legitimate" stage. And you know what that means, too!

Viola Dana's another who's gone from Hollywood to vaudeville. And Lew Cody's "all washed up," too, according to the gossip.

Betty Compson is another of the former headliners from whom we've been hearing little during the last three years, and Conway Tearle, not so long ago the most sought-after leading man of them all, is reported to be "in the wrong" stand on the attempted slaying of pay envelopes. 'Tis said that Tearle can't get any more contracts. At any rate, he hasn't been knocking the flappers dead with his profile since the historic squabble.

Yes, there are others—but these eight will, in all probability, be more or less mourned by millions of people who were their ardent admirers.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

The temperance program arranged for Tuesday was postponed indefinitely by Principal Louis Hamerle.

Students are now boosting the ticket sale for the entertainment to be given by the Dramatic Club Thursday, January 26. Three one-act plays are to be presented to the public at the evening performance, which is scheduled to begin promptly at 8:30 p. m. The casts of the three plays are being ably coached by Miss Esther Smith.

The Boys' and Girls' Glee Clubs are practicing earnestly for another concert to be given soon. Several new novelties are being arranged by the director, Miss Marie Lindsey. Tickets will go on sale soon.

There are many rumors and much gossip at the high school concerning what is known as the "Dirty Dozen," a mysterious organization which is slated to appear as a side feature of the Central-Troy basketball game Friday night. Real entertainment is promised.

Miss Fannie K. Haynes, Latin teacher, who has been absent for the last three weeks due to injuries sustained in an auto accident, will probably return to her work the first of next week. Miss Haggard, who has been substituting for Miss Haynes.

Intra-mural basketball games are attracting much attention. Rivalry between classes this season is keener than ever before and some interesting contests are anticipated. The contests are played during the activities period and members of the classes participating in the games are excused from studies to watch their teams perform in the gymnasium.

Dinner Stories!

PROOF POSITIVE
A slightly hilarious gentleman had mistakenly thrown his arms about a totally strange woman. He hastened to apologize.

"Sense me, madam," he gasped. "I thought you were my wife."

"You're a fine husband for any woman to have, you see!" screamed the lady in a rage.

"There, y' see!" ejaculated the gentleman, triumphantly. "Y' talk just like her, too."

WIFELY REPLY

A man and his spouse were motoring through the wonders of nature's countryside in their 1905 model.

"Darling," he said, "I have taken you over all the rough places in life as a good husband should, haven't I?"

"Yes, dear," she replied. "I doubt if you've missed very many of them."

BOTH BIRTH AND DEATH RATES IN XENIA DECLINE REPORT SHOWS

Births exceeded deaths by one during the year 1927 in the Xenia city health district, according to the annual report of Dr. A. D. DeHaven, city health commissioner.

Births numbered 172 while 171 deaths were recorded, the report discloses.

This is a decrease in both the birth and death rates from the preceding year. In 1926 there were 227 births and 187 deaths.

Nineteen cases of communicable diseases were reported during 1927 resulting in six fatalities, against twenty-one cases of contagious diseases in 1926 resulting in no deaths.

Cases disclosed in the 1927 report included ten of scarlet fever, seven of tuberculosis, which resulted in six fatalities, one of smallpox and one of typhoid fever. Eighteen cases of scarlet fever are noted in the 1926 report.

Six deaths resulted from pulmonary tuberculosis in 1927 against eleven the previous year.

Dr. DeHaven pointed out in the report that the city's school population is 100 per cent vaccinated against smallpox while 75 per cent of the adult population is guarded against the disease.

Food handling establishments in the district inspected during the year included groceries, meat markets, milk distributors, dairies, bakeries and restaurants.

Each of the seventeen complaints received regarding unsanitary conditions was corrected, the report declared.

Twenty-five per cent of the milk consumed in Xenia is from tuberculin-tested cattle, it was declared.

The annual report, drawn up in completed form this time, was submitted to City Manager S. O. Hale to be incorporated in his yearly statement. A copy will be sent to the state health department.

BALES MOTOR SALES IN NEW LOCATION

The Bales Motor Sales, local agency for the Oldsmobile automobiles, has moved to its new location at 25 S. Detroit St. The sales room formerly occupied by the N. N. Hunter auto agency.

The transfer was completed last Saturday. The agency, managed by Grover C. Bales, had been located on W. Main St. for the last four months.

SENTENCE PAIR

ATHENS, O., Jan. 19.—Wearing tin badges which proclaimed them "dry raiders" and carrying guns and nitroglycerine, cost Fred E. Helmich, 27, an indeterminate sentence to Ohio Penitentiary and Donald Martin, 23, a term in the Mansfield reformatory today. The two came here from Connelville, Pa., according to police.

DR. A. D. DEHAVEN

The district's milk supply, derived from five pasteurizing plants and two non-pasteurizing plants, is 94 per cent pasteurized, according to the report.

Ten inspections were made of pasteurizing plants and two of non-pasteurizing plants during the year, while $21 gallons of milk were distributed daily.

Twenty-five per cent of the milk consumed in Xenia is from tuberculin-tested cattle, it was declared.

The annual report, drawn up in completed form this time, was submitted to City Manager S. O. Hale to be incorporated in his yearly statement. A copy will be sent to the state health department.

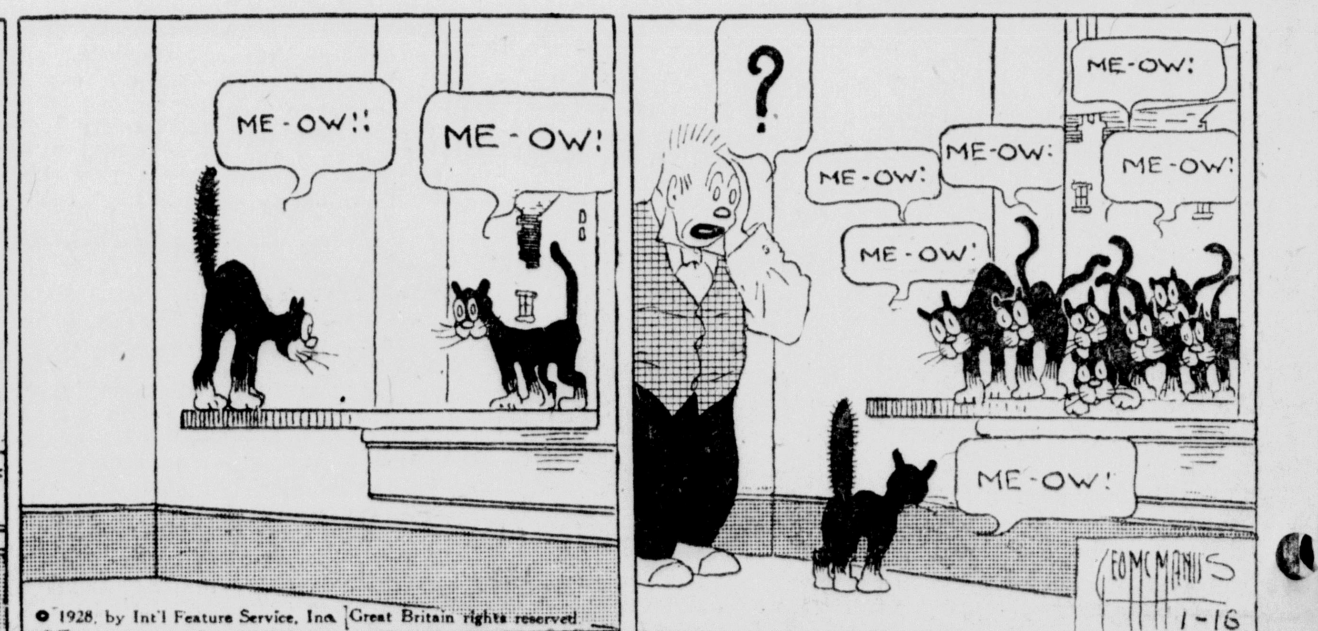

ALLEGED FORGER IS ARRESTED HERE

Walter Miller, 37, colored, E. Church St., wanted by Harveysburg, O. authorities for forgery, was arrested Wednesday night by Patrolman George Robinson.

He was locked up at Police Headquarters and will be turned over to a Harveysburg officer, who was scheduled to come to Xenia Thursday.

A Harveysburg constable came to Xenia Wednesday and left a warrant for Miller's arrest on a charge of forging a $100 check. Miller has passed several worthless checks in that village, police were told.

THIEVES RANSACK OIL PLANT OFFICE

Thieves who forced an entrance into the office of The Columbus Oil Co., 123 Hill St., Wednesday night, went away empty-handed, according to a report made to police. Company officials discovered the office ransacked Thursday morning, but a check revealed nothing of value was missing. Drawers and papers had been examined but no money was available to be stolen.

Entrance was effected by cutting a heavy wire netting protecting the window. The thief evidently then reached down a stove pipe hole, pushed the pipe down and unlatched the window from within. Patrolman Fred Jones investigated.

ROSS TOWNSHIP

Mrs. Massie, of Latham, spent a few days last week with her son, Mr. Otto Beckman and family.

The young ladies' class of Grape Grove Sunday School gave an oyster supper in the church basement, last Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Arlo Cummings were entertained at 6 o'clock dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ward Sessler, of South Charleston, Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Sheely entertained to dinner, Friday, Mrs. Wm. Centers and children, Mrs. Wm. Klein and daughters, and Mrs. Smith and daughters, of Springfield.

Mr. J. J. Sullivan has re-opened his grocery and has a full line of groceries.

Miss Ethel Jones spent the week end with her parents, Mr. Albert Jones and family, of Belmont.

Mr. and Mrs. John Irwin attended the funeral of Mrs. Frank Powers, at Cedarville, Saturday, Mrs. Powers being a cousin of Mr. Irwin.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Sheely spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Donnelly, of Springfield.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Guy Johnson, last week.

DIES ON WEDNESDAY

Word has been received by Greene County relatives of the death of Hamilton Thompson, at his home in Cincinnati, Wednesday. Mr. Thompson's wife, who has been dead several years, had a number of Greene County relatives.

Funeral services for Mr. Thompson will be held Friday at the Cincinnati residence. He leaves one son, Orville B. Thompson, Cincinnati.

FILLS VACANCY

Jack Ewhank, Cedarville, has been employed as history and science instructor at Beaver High School, to fill the vacancy resulting from the resignation of Superintendent Elmer Snyder.

Mr. Ewhank completed his studies this semester at Cedarville College and previously taught in Meigs County.

Dem's Financier

A personal certified check for $200,000, written by Jesse Jones, finance director of the Democratic national committee and Texas millionaire, is said to have been one of the deciding factors in bringing the Democratic convention to Houston, Tex. He took charge of the party's finances in 1924.

PROOF POSITIVE

A slightly hilarious gentleman had mistakenly thrown his arms about a totally strange woman. He hastened to apologize.

"Sense me, madam," he gasped. "I thought you were my wife."

"You're a fine husband for any woman to have, you sot!" screamed the lady in a rage.

"There, y' see!" ejaculated the gentleman triumphantly. "Y' talk jus' like her, too."

WIFELY REPLY

A man and his spouse were motoring through the wonders of nature's countryside in their 1908 model.

"Darling," he said, "I have taken you over all the rough places in life as a good husband should, haven't I?"

"Yes, dear," she replied. "I doubt if you've missed very many of them."

Old Familiar Faces Beginning to Disappear From the Silver Screen

(International Newsreel)

Time marches on! And nowhere is this more evident than in Hollywood, cradle of the jumping celluloids, where favorite of today is forgotten on the morrow.

The year 1928 will probably mark the passing of a record number of names—stars who have done much to make film history.

POLA "BREAKS DOWN"

Famous Players have refused to exercise a costly option on Pola Negri's services. Pola responded with a "nervous breakdown." She's trying to shake off her plague in Hawaii. But the chances are that Princess Mdivani's just about through with American flicker fans. So's her sister-in-law.

By which is meant Mae Murray.

CHARLIE OUT, TOO

Charlie Ray lost everything but the initials on his pajamas when he tried producing on his own hook. He made a stab at a come-back, but now he's in New York, and it's said that he will be seen on the "legitimate" stage. And you know what that means, too!

Viola Dana's another who's gone from Hollywood to vaudeville. And Lew Cody's "all washed up," too, according to the gossip.

Betty Compson is another of the former headliners from whom we've been hearing little during the last three years, and Conway Tearle, not so long ago the most sought-after leading man of them all, is reported to be "in wrong" with the producers because of his stand on the attempted slaying of pay envelopes.

"Tis said that Tearle can't get any more contracts. At any rate, he hasn't been knocking the flappers dead with his profile since the historic squabble.

Yes, there are others—but these eight will, in all probability, be more or less mourned by millions of people who were their ardent admirers.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

The temperance program arranged for Tuesday was postponed indefinitely by Principal Louis Hamerle.

Students are now boosting the ticket sale for the entertainment to be given by the Dramatic Club Thursday, January 25. Three one-act plays are to be presented to the public at the evening performance, which is scheduled to begin promptly at 8:30 p. m. The casts of the three plays are being coached by Miss Esther Smith.

The Boys' and Girls' Glee Clubs are practicing earnestly for another concert to be given soon. Several new novelties are being arranged by the director, Miss Marie Lindsey. Tickets will go on sale soon.

There are many rumors and much gossip at the high school concerning what is known as the "Dirty Dozen," a mysterious organization which is slated to appear as a side feature of the Central-Troy basketball game Friday night. Real entertainment is promised.

Miss Fannie K. Haynes, Latin teacher, who has been absent for the last three weeks due to injuries sustained in an auto accident, will probably return to her work the first of next week. Miss Hazzard, Wilmington, O., has been substituting for Miss Haynes.

Intra-mural basketball games are attracting much attention. Rivalry between classes this season is keener than ever before and some interesting contests are anticipated. The contests are played during the activities period and members of the classes participating in the games are excused from studies to watch their teams perform in the gymnasium.

BOTH BIRTH AND DEATH RATES IN XENIA DECLINE REPORT SHOWS

Births exceeded deaths by one during the year 1927 in the Xenia city health district, according to the annual report of Dr. A. D. DeHaven, city health commissioner.

Births numbered 172 while 171 deaths were recorded, the report discloses.

This is a decrease in both the birth and death rates from the preceding year. In 1926 there were 227 births and 187 deaths.

Nineteen cases of communicable diseases were reported during 1927 resulting in six fatalities, against twenty-one cases of contagious diseases in 1926 resulting in no deaths.

Cases disclosed in the 1927 report included ten of scarlet fever, seven of tuberculosis, which resulted in six fatalities, one of smallpox and one of typhoid fever. Eighteen cases of scarlet fever are noted in the 1926 report.

Six deaths resulted from pulmonary tuberculosis in 1927 against eleven the previous year.

Dr. DeHaven pointed out in the report that the city's school population is 100 per cent vaccinated against smallpox while 75 per cent of the adult population is guarded against the disease.

Food handling establishments in the district inspected during the year included groceries, meat markets, milk distributors, dairies, bakeries and restaurants.

Each of the seventeen complaints received regarding unsanitary conditions was corrected, the report declared.

The Bales Motor Sales, local agency for the Oldsmobile automobiles, has moved to its new location at 35 S. Detroit St. The sales room formerly occupied by the N. N. Hunter auto agency.

The transfer was completed last Saturday. The agency, managed by Grover C. Bales, had been located on W. Main St. for the last four months.

ALLEGED FORGER IS ARRESTED HERE

Walter Miller, 37, colored, E. Church St., wanted by Harveysburg, O. authorities for forgery, was arrested Wednesday night by Patrolman George Robinson.

He was locked up at Police Headquarters and will be turned over to a Harveysburg officer, who was scheduled to come to Xenia Thursday.

A Harveysburg constable came to Xenia Wednesday and left a warrant for Miller's arrest on a charge of forging a $100 check. Miller has passed several worthless checks in that village, police were told.

SENTENCE PAIR

ATHENS, O., Jan. 19.—Wearing tin badges which proclaimed them "dry raiders" and carrying guns and nitroglycerine, cost Fred E. Helmich, 27, an indeterminate sentence to Ohio Penitentiary and a Donald Martin, 23, a term in the Mansfield reformatory today. The two came here from Conneville, Pa., according to police.

This silver comes from the emulsion used by the makers of photographic film to coat the five to six million feet of celluloid consumed by the Paramount laboratories each month. In the process of developing the negatives and making prints, this fortune in white metal is left in the bottom of the tanks containing the hypso-white solution. From there it is reclaimed.

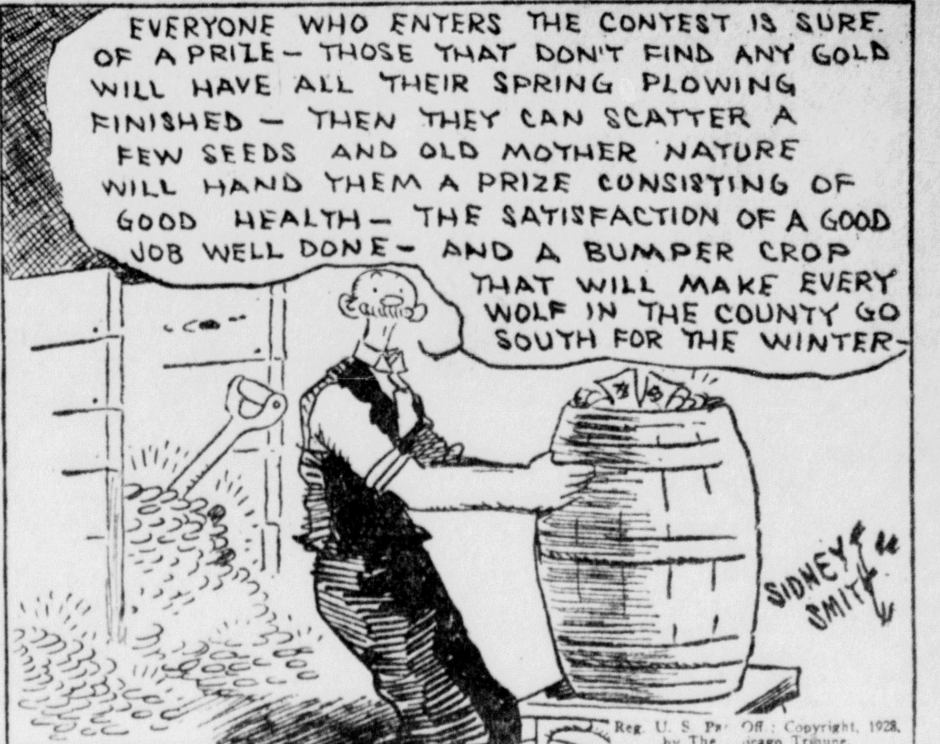

Recently, however, the Paramount Corporation, has started selling its recovered silver to one market only, the United States mint at San Francisco, where it is stamped out into coin. The next time you go to your banker just ask him for two Clara Bows and a Richard Dix for a Wallace Beery. Six thousand dollars worth of silver in one month seems a tremendous quantity but the silver used to coat six million feet of motion picture film has a value of $15,000. Much of this silver remains on the film during the developing process, for there must be light and shadow. If all of it was removed nothing but clear film would remain and the motion picture would be lost.

Fay Wray, Gary Cooper and Ruth Taylor are among the eleven young film players just listed by announcements from Paramount as its prize candidates and hopes for stardom during the year, 1923. They have a glorious opportunity, such as few young actors and actresses have received before. If the others make good in the same decisive manner,

PAGEANT FAVORING HOME MISSIONS TO BE CHURCH FEATURE

"America's Unfinished Battles" is the title of a thrilling Home Mission pageant which will be presented at the Second United Presbyterian Church next Sunday night at 7:30 o'clock.

There are three principal characters in the pageant: America, Service and Patriotism. America summons Service and Patriotism to present their causes. Patriotism is self contented and complacent over the achievements of the past, and is impatient with Service in her demands upon America to care for the backward and the needy within her bounds. America, others, Patriotism to summon the representatives of those who have made America great. This she does most impressively. Then Service is ordered to present her evidence of present needs and she summons representatives of the neglected classes in America in a strong appeal. The result is that America and patriotism join with Service in full acknowledgment of what America has achieved, yet none the less fully recognizing the unfinished battles of the present.

The pageant presentation is under the personal direction of Mrs. J. A. Crawford, educational secretary of the United Presbyterian Board of Home Missions. She is assisted by a cast of about fifty local people. Those taking part will appear in costumes as worn by the nations or classes which they represent. The pageant has been presented more than ten times throughout the United States from Boston to San Francisco, and is now greeted by crowded houses. It is a compelling picture of America's call to home mission effort, according to Mrs. J. P. White, editor, who has witnessed presentations in other cities.

No admission is charged, but a tree-planting is required to move a portion of the expense of presentation.

ALLOW PROSECUTOR SPECIAL COUNSEL; OTHER COURT NEWS

Application filed by County Commissioners and the prosecuting attorney seeking authority to employ special counsel to assist the prosecutor in the trial of the case of Shaw and others against County Commissioners involving Springfield Pike paving assessments, in Common Pleas Court and in the reviewing courts in the event the case is carried to the higher courts, has been granted in Common Pleas Court.

ADMINISTRATORS NAMED
Frank Hustmyer has been appointed administrator of the estate of Daniel Rowan, late of the city of Xenia, with bond of $3,000 in Probate Court.

W. G. Turner has been named administrator of the estate of Andrew Turner, late of Silverbrook Twp., with bond $2,000 bond. Roy Moorman, Andrew Dwyer and Florence Binegar were appointed appraisers.

I Have Said in My Heart

By IDA H. McCLONE GIBSON
THE NECESSITY OF TACT

Looking about through the popular beauty shops in New York lately, it seemed to me as though the first requisite of business success was tact. While I was sitting waiting my turn a woman came in with a fresh, beautiful complexion, but alas, her hair was gray in great patches above her forehead. She seated herself in the chair and looked at her face in the mirror with a sigh. It had really taken on tragic lines.

The pretty attendant took out the pins of the white splashed locks almost reverently. "What a beautiful texture your hair has," she exclaimed. "We never see this quality in gray hair unless its loss of color is premature."

A smile chased away the sign on the woman's lips and with that speech the attendant began her work of improving her patron's physical attraction. She was more than half done before she began, for she had succeeded in turning up the gray haired woman's lips where they had been turned down in disgust at her appearance in the glass. Without one physical manipulation she had tacitly smothered out the unsatisfied frown between her eyes.

This was very different also, from the young attendant in the next booth, who, as she seated her patient—undoubtedly of a certainly uncertain age—in a chair, remarked, "You have a very fine skin for a woman of your age, and then she smiled as though she had said something flattering, but one glance at the woman's face showed that any attention that girl might give to the woman in the chair would be lost. She had made it impossible to improve her looks by her tactless remark.

Perfect Health is always refreshing

If you are tired—lack pep—if your skin is not clear—if your appetite is "gone"—you owe it to yourself and friends to try S.S.S. Its tonic effects will surprise you.

WHEN your system is filled with rich, red blood, you don't have that tired, languid feeling when you awake in the morning.

Instead, you feel refreshed, ready to meet the world! Your appetite is keen, you enjoy work or play. Your skin is clear—cheeks naturally rosy.

All this because rich, red blood is Nature's substance for building and sustaining the body.

Thousands have regained their strength and charm by taking a few bottles of S.S.S.—Nature's own tonic for restoring the appetite—building strength—and clearing the body of so-called skin troubles.

You know a clear skin comes from within. Correct the cause—thru the blood—and pimples, boils, eczema, and that sallow complexion will disappear.

For more than 100 years S.S.S.

has been giving relief in thousands of cases, as testified to in unsolicited letters of gratitude.

"I was troubled with pimples and blackheads. I took a course of S.S.S. It cleared my face and back. I think S.S.S. is wonderful. I have told many friends about S.S.S., and they are getting as much benefit as I did."

In All America no Better Built Car at the Price!

More power... more speed... more smoothness. A brilliant change of pace. You instinctively expect them. You somehow know that's what you get in the All-American Six... But consider these other reasons for its striking success. The exacting care and craftsmanship with which the car is built. How marvelously it survives the tests and trials of time... Here are stamina and endurance that result only from All-American engineering. Big, rugged, oversize units. Balance and simplicity of design. Month after month of pitiless testing on General Motors Proving Ground... and super-precision construction throughout!... That's why its power, speed and smoothness are measured in tens of thousands of miles. Why economy and dependability are Oakland owners' by-words. Why All-American owners will tell you—"No better built car at the price!"

PRICES: 2-door Sedan, $1045; Landau Coupe, $1045; Sport Roadster, $1075; 4-door Sedan, $1145; Cabriolet, $1155; Landau Sedan, $1265.

PAN-AMERICAN AIR ROUTES ADVOCATED

By TASKER L. ODDIE
U. S. Senator from Nevada
Tasker Lowndes Oddie was born in Brooklyn, N. Y., in 1870. He received his law degree from New York University in 1895. In 1898 he went to Nevada in the employ of Anson Phelps Stokes of New York. He was one of the early developers of the Tonopah mines and is still engaged in mining operations there. After serving successively as county district attorney, state senator and governor of Nevada, Tasker Oddie was elected U. S. Senator in 1921.

It is highly important that the United States should be the first to take part in the establishment of airways linking this country with South and Central America. If Americans do not take the initiative in this matter it is certain that citizens or organizations of other nations will seize upon the opportunity and beat us to it.

The routes of airmail communication with South America would necessarily cross the Panama Canal zone and that fact gives the project considerable importance from the viewpoint of the United States. The construction of this proposed inter-continental highway, would be a means of promoting good will and of increasing trade between the United States and Latin-American countries. It would also mean a very considerable source of revenue to the Latin-American countries and possibly to the United States due to the enormous tourist traffic which he believes would flow over this highway.

Intimations have been received that at least some of the Latin-American countries would look with favor upon the construction of such a highway.

Of course, the construction and maintenance of the highway within each country would be entirely in the hands of the respective countries, the treaties which may be negotiated would be merely for the purpose of agreeing upon the points at which the various national air lines of the system would join. So far as the route to be traversed by the highway in the United States is concerned, little consideration has been given so far to that detail of the program. It is quite probable that it will be found advisable to build several highways in the United States converging at some point on the frontier to link up with the international system.

STOP BAD BREATH

People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

Olive Tablets bring no gripping, pain or any disagreeable effects. Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after 20 years of practice among patients afflicted with bad breath and complaint with the attendant bad breath. Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color. Take nightly for a week and note the effect. 15c, 30c, 60c. All Druggists.

PAGEANT FAVORING HOME MISSIONS TO BE CHURCH FEATURE

"America's Unfinished Battles" is the title of a thrilling Home Mission pageant which will be presented at the Second United Presbyterian Church next Sunday night at 7:30 o'clock.

There are three principal characters in the pageant: America, Service and Patriotism. America summons Service and Patriotism to present their causes. Patriotism is self contented and complacent over the achievements of the past, and is impatient with Service in her demands upon America to care for the backward and the needy within her bounds. America orders Patriotism to summon the representatives of those who have made America great. This she does most impressively. Then Service is ordered to present her evidence of present needs and the summary representatives of the neglected classes in America in a strong appeal. The result is that America and patriotism join with Service in full acknowledgment of what America has achieved, yet none the less fully recognizing the unfulfilled duties of the present.

The pageant presentation is under the personal direction of Mrs. J. A. Crawford, educational secretary of the United Presbyterian Board of Home Missions. She is assisted by a cast of about fifty local people. These taking part will represent in costume as given by the nature of the classes which they represent. The pageant has been presented more than 100 times throughout the United States from Boston to San Francisco, and it was greeted by crowded audiences in a competing pageant at Boston and in Home Mission efforts according to Mrs. J. P. White, editor, who has witnessed presentations in other cities.
